OPEN VERDICT IS RETURNED

Inquest Into Death of Late Joseph Stewart of North Grimsby Unable To Place Responsibility

An open verdict was returned by the jury after hearing the evidence of seven witnesses into the death of Joseph Stewart, age 60, North Grimsby Township, who was instantly killed outside the Winona post office last Saturday when struck by a car driven by Miss Mary McDougall, of Millport, N. Y., as the elderly man was crossing the highway. The jury stated that from the evidence of the case they were unable to place the responsibility for the fatality. It attached a rider to the verdict recommending that the department of highways make zones for a slower speed where highways pass through hamlets.

Dr. B. E. Thompson, of Stoney Creek, acted as coroner with George W. Ballard, K.C., conducting the case. C. W. Bell, K.C., appeared for the family of the deceased while Stuart Smith was present on behalf of Miss McDougall.

Howard Smith, of Winona, told of talking to Mr. Stewart while he was sitting in his car outside the post office immediately before Mr. Stewart crossed the road and was hit. Mr. Smith said he passed a few words with Mr. Stewart and then the elderly man walked to the back of Mr. Smith's car and started across the highway. Mr. Smith had trouble starting his machine and before he had moved away a car coming from the east suddenly jammed on its brakes and Mr. Smith looked up to see it pass his car and then he saw two hands flash up and a bat fly into the air. He then got out of his car to find Mr. Stewart lying on a pile of crushed stone on the north side of the highway. Mr. Smith got a girl to telephone for a doctor and went to the bank nearby and told the son of the deceased man of the accident.

J. R. Dixon, Toronto, was driving east past the scene; the accident occurred about 100 feet in front of him. He stated that the elderly man apparently saw the approaching car from the United States and after stopping in the center of the highway became confused and started forward a couple of times and then ran directly in the path of the car which was turning off the highway to the right to avoid him. Mr. Smith thought the man was on the shoulder of the road when he was struck. The witness also saw the front and rear wheel of the American machine pass over Mr. Stewart as he was lying on the crushed stones.

Dalton Stewart, age 11, grandson of the deceased, told of seeing his grandfather start across the highway and then start to hurry and finally was struck by the car coming from the east.

Provincial Traffic Officer Edward Jess told of investigating the scene of the accident and said that the car had traveled about 70 feet on the shoulder of the road after leaving the pavement till it finally came to rest against a pole damaging the car and injuring Mrs. McDougall, mother of the driver, by throwing her against the roof. A cut the woman passenger sustained needed four stitches to close.

Miss Mary McDougall, driver of the car, told of approaching the station road crossing and seeing the elderly man the minute he stepped from the side of Mr. Smith's car. She applied the brakes, but Mr. Stewart stopped in the middle of the road and looked directly at her so the motorist thought the pedestrian was giving her the right of way. She started to proceed when the man started to hurry across and then, although Miss McDougall started to veer to the right, seemed to run directly into her path, striking the front of the machine immediately in front of the driver's seat. After striking the man Miss McDougall said she had gone so far off the pavement that she had difficulty stopping her car with safety and struck the pole.

E. E. Murdock and Dr. D. G. Clendeman gave technical evidence on the case.

"Jack And The Beanstalk" To Be Given In Grimsby

At a meeting held Monday afternoon by the Students Council of Grimsby High School it was decided to present "Jack and the Beanstalk" by Monty's Marionettes, in the school Auditorium, at 8 p. m., Thursday, September 14.

This presentation is as renowned as it is unique. After playing in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and many other Canadian cities it comes here exploited by a barrage of very satisfactory criticisms of Canada's leading Dramatic critics who hail it an unique, interesting, amusing, and educational, entertainment for youngsters from 3 to 93.

Based on the fairy tale of age-old favour it is reproduced in every detail and is remarkable in its exactness. By use of advanced lighting and mechanics it attracted much comment.

One of the features that makes it of educational value is the perfect diction and English, being hailed by critics as embodying Kings English, a feature, they added, that most of these productions lack.

This is indeed a treat that should not be missed and sponsored in Grimsby by the High School it merits your support. Tickets are being sold by members of the Student Council and Ticker. These tickets sell for 25c and 15c; adults 25c, children under sixteen 15c, and reserved seats 35c. The plan is at Millard's Drug Store.

EPIDEMIC OF AUTO THEFTS

There was an epidemic of automobile thefts in the district over the week end with two cars stolen from St. Catharines and one recovered there that had been stolen from Niagara Falls. A Pontiac car stolen from the Falls was recovered early Monday morning on Dittrick street. The Chevrolet coupe of Mrs. E. N. Trapnell, stolen from the driveway on Adam street, St. Catharines early Sunday morning was recovered Monday morning in a bush off the Hamilton highway near Lincoln Winery.

In stealing this car the thieves pushed the locked car of Mr. Trapnell from the driveway and then took Mrs. Trapnell's car. A new Chevrolet coach belonging to Wm. Melke, was stolen between 11 and 12 o'clock on Sunday evening from in front of his home, 7 Glen Ridge avenue. This car, dark green in color, bears license T7105. Highway Traffic Officer Earl Bond of Beamsville lost his car temporarily when it was stolen Sunday morning from in front of his residence. The car was later recovered.

Highway Traffic Officer Earl Bond trailed five cars last Thursday night from the outskirts of Grimsby right to the city boundaries and then turned them over to the city police, following a report of strange doings in a motor car. Geo. Rigo, 170 Spadina avenue, and Geo. Maki, 24 Grange Ave., Toronto, answered charges in city police court. Rigo was charged with intoxication pleaded guilty and paid a $10 fine. Maki, on a charge of illegal possession, pleaded not guilty and desired counsel, so was allowed to go on bail of $200 and his case was adjourned.

HUMANE SOCIETY TAG DAY HELD

Substantial Amount Contributed By Citizens Towards Worthy Undertaking.

That citizens appreciate the excellent work being done by the Humane Society was evident on Saturday when they contributed the substantial amount of $27.43 towards this worthy cause on the occasion of the annual tag day. Last year the sum of $19.13 was contributed, an increased amount being given this year.

Mrs. R. M. Wolfenden, local representative of the County Humane Society, was in charge assisted by her sister, Miss Lees, while a bevy of nine young girls was active throughout the day disposing of the tags.

Inspector Fawell of the Humane Society visits Grimsby every week for the purpose of looking after stray dogs and cats as well as other animals. He is available at any time upon call to investigate and take action on any complaints that may be made regarding cruelty to animals.

Controversy Over High School Rates In Wentworth County

That the controversy over high school rates fixed by the city board of education for county students attending local secondary schools has strayed away from the original point of issue was the assertion made last week by T. M. Stock, county warden of Wentworth. He declared that failure of the county council to accept the suggested rate of $160 a year per pupil was not so much an important factor as is the apparent determination of the county body to transfer onus of responsibility to the separate municipalities. The whole situation was created, he said through the objection taken by certain members of the county council to the fact that parents of students were forced to pay out $3 per month. Their argument was that the county should assume the entire amount of $16 per month. When a majority of members disagreed with the latter proposal, it was decided to make each municipality enter into separate arrangements with the city board of education.

At the present time, that is where things stand. Warden Stock added that in the county appropriations a sum of $60,000 was provided for educational costs. The different municipalities of the county are levied a school tax in the proportion of the number of students attending the city schools. He intimated that the county council would have to consider what each of the townships might be entitled to as refunds in the event that they make individual arrangements with the board of education. It was suggested to Mr. Stock that such municipalities would be entitled to a return of four-tenths of the amount they have been assessed, which covers the four-month period from now until next December 13.

That there is considerable inequality in the manner of assessing school throughout the county is the contention of Saltfleet representatives. With a high school of its own, Saltfleet is required to pay its proportion of costs into the county treasury. Last year the amount was in excess of $12,000, of which $9,000 was refunded. They demand to know why the township providing its own educational facilities should have to share the burden of other municipalities having no high school.

NO UNEMPLOYED IN BURLINGTON

Practically every man who has been on relief in Burlington this year is now back to work again. Such was the good news handed out Tuesday morning by Lee J. Smith, relief officer. Both he and William Mortimer, the welfare board secretary, have been working hard in getting the men placed at various jobs, and the results obtained are more than satisfactory. In a few cases the men on relief are too old to work, or ill, and they have not been placed in employment.

A BIG TOMATO

At Central market, Hamilton, on Monday, Mrs. Albert Clark, Overfield street, Dundas, displayed among other garden produce a tomato weighing no less than two pounds and two ounces. It was an extraordinary sample, sound and perfect in all its conformation.

Fruit Tournament On Saturday Next Big Entry List

The big event of the lawn bowling season here is the annual fruit tournament and this year it promises to eclipse previous years in point of attendance and interest.

President D. E. Anderson and Games Secretary, George F. Warner, who with other officials of the organization have been working energetically to ensure its success, report that not only have the full number of entries which were originally fixed at forty, been received but applications continue coming in so that arrangements are being made for additional bowling green accommodation at Beamsville in order that none may be disappointed.

The seventh tournament will take place on the greens of the Grimsby Lawn Bowling Club which are in excellent shape and keen competition is assured as some of the finest lawn bowlers in the province will be in attendance. The tournament will be held on Saturday next, September 16th commencing at two o'clock, daylight saving time, and will continue afternoon and evening.

The widespread interest taken in the event is convincingly evident in the entries which have been received, Hamilton, Kitchener, Galt, Port Colborne, Port Dalhousie, Dunnville, Oxford, Aldershot, Mitchell, Brantford, St. Catharines, Clarkson, Ayr, Lucknow, Lynden, Hagersville, Mimico, West Toronto, Guelph, Newmarket, Tillsonburg, Niagara Falls and other points.

All the fruit prizes will be made up of specially packed containers and they will comprise the district's finest fruits. Needless to say the bowlers, over three hundred in number, will be extended a most cordial welcome by members of the bowling Club and citizens generally.

Will Accept $40 Per Ton From "Big Four" Wineries

At a meeting of the executive of the Grape Growers' association held in St. Catharines recently, it was unanimously agreed to accept $40 per ton from the "big four" wineries, for whatever quantity of blue and white grapes they will require this year.

This was the culmination of a long series of meetings held between the companies and the growers, the liquor control board sitting in at times as a sort of referee.

It is understood that before the wine companies would pay this price they asked and received permission to raise the price of certain brands of wine from 5 to 10 cents per gallon.

PEACH KINGS DEFEAT BEAMSVILLE

Beamsville took a licking Monday night at the hands of the Peach Kings who were playing right up to form and the double plays produced in this game by the Peach Kings would knock the New York Tanks dizzy. The Beamsville team got one run in the second and one run in the third and this was the last of their scoring activities. The Peach Kings kept hammering the ball all around the lot, Fox and Cambray both came through with a home run each bringing in a couple runs both times until the score got up to seven. Then the seventh inning was reached and at the end of the seventh inning the score stood 7 to 2 in Grimsby favor.

About six hundred witnessed this game and the crowd got a great thrill and the boys on the team were well repaid for their effort as a big hand was given on every play.

The team travels to Stoney Creek Wednesday night and on Friday night they come here for the return game.

A district resident returned from a fishing trip in Northern Ontario with one side of his car considerably damaged. His story was that he was awakened early one morning by the car. He claims to have found a billy goat charging its own reflection on the side of his bright and shiny car. Its horns, he claims, did the damage.

There is a proper time for everything. Tonight is the night of Monty's Marionettes "Jack in the Beanstalk".

AGRICULTURAL COURSE APPROVED

Board Favors Suggestion of High School Principal — Zoology and Botany To Be Omitted From Course.

The Grimsby Board of Education held its September meeting on Wednesday last when both the new principals of the High and Public schools were present.

Mr. Clarry, principal of the high school, requested that he be permitted to institute an agricultural course in lower school in place of zoology and botany. The Board approved the request and the necessary application will be sent to the Department of Education. Mr. Clarry said that the rotary system would not be used this year and the school hours will be from 9 o'clock to 12 o'clock and from 1.30 o'clock to 4 o'clock. Mr. Clarry also thought the high school walls required cleaning and suggested that the local unemployed be given the work in December.

The use of typewriters in the school is to be restricted to the use of the students and certain machines out at present are to be returned.

The recently erected dump on the high school grounds was objected to by one of the Board members who said that odors arising therefrom were very objectionable on account of the garbage which had been dumped there. He advised that the Board investigate the action of the town appropriating part of the school grounds as a dump.

Many Accidents Over Week-End

Jack Livingstone, 48 Heward street Buffalo, sustained a laceration to the head which required 12 stitches, last Sunday night, when the car in which he was a passenger, went into the ditch about two miles east of Beamsville. He suffered considerably from shock also. Medical attention was given at the office of Dr. C. W. Elmore in Beamsville. Norman Livingstone, same address driver of the car and brother of the injured man, complained to police that his car while east-bound had been forced into the ditch by a westbound bus which did not stop. The bus, he claimed, turned out to pass another car as it approached the ditch and he either had to take the ditch or a head-on smash. About the only damage to his car was a broken window. The accident happened about 9.10 o'clock.

Monday morning a motor car while bound on the Grimsby Mountain road shot across to the opposite side of the road and broke off a Hydro pole. The driver, said to be a mountain resident, left the scene immediately and had the car removed later in the day.

On Saturday evening an Illinois car, reported to have been owned and driven by a doctor, hit a brand new Quebec car on the west side of Jordan hill. The Quebec car was damaged to the extent of $50 or more. The American driver refused to remain at the scene until police arrived, but told the Quebec man to follow him in to St. Catharines where he would get an estimate on repairs. This was done, but when the price was quoted the visitor from across the border refused absolutely to pay and jumped in his car and drove away. It is also claimed that he refused to give his name to the other driver. However, the license plates on his car were a means of learning his identity and he will probably pay the bill.

NEW APPLE IS BEING HARVESTED

H. E. Maycock, well-known fruit grower of Vinemount, this week picked the new Madame Melba apple and judging from the sample which he exhibited, the fruit is likely to prove popular.

The new variety is a cross between a McIntosh and a Dutchess. It has the appealing flavor of the McIntosh and is a better color than the Dutchess.

SEASON SOON OVER

With this season two weeks earlier than ordinary, the peach crop, with the exception of the real late varieties, will be off this week. In spite of the light crop of grapes this season the earlier varieties are selling for less than a year ago. Housewives are taking advantage of the low prices and in basket sales locally have been brisk.

Presentation To W. A. Page — Moving To Quebec Province

Members of the choir of St. Andrew's Anglican Church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Bourne on Friday evening last to honor Mr. W. A. Page, organist and choir leader at that church for a number of years prior to his departure for Lennoxville, Que., to which place he moved on Tuesday. Mr. Page was formerly Mathematics master at Lake Lodge School.

A very pleasant few hours was spent, Rev. J. A. Ballard, on behalf of the choir, presenting Mr. Page with a handsome hymn book. He expressed regret that the church was to lose him and extended cordial good wishes for his every success in his new position.

Lunch was afterwards served by the hostess.

GRAPE CROP IS LIGHT

Estimated at 60 Per Cent of Last Year — Wineries To Pay Minimum of $40 Per Ton.

Grape growers of the district are worried over the disposition of their crop, even though it be only between 40 and 60 per cent. The price of basket grapes sent on consignment is reported by growers to be so low as to be an expense to the growers, while wineries have not announced their price or quantity. The wineries are said to be withholding contracts pending results of a committee recently negotiating with the liquor control board of Ontario in an effort to increase the selling price of wine by 5 cents per bottle. It is also reported that the wineries are willing to pay $40 a ton for grapes made into wine sold in Ontario and $35 a ton for grapes made into wine sold outside the province.

HISTORICAL TABLETS UNVEILED AT ERIE ON SUNDAY

A man who was Reeve of Fort Erie in 1886 came back to that place on Sunday to deliver the principal address at the unveiling of two historical tablets at the ruins of old Fort Erie, from which no gun has been fired in 119 years.

Hundreds of persons gathered on shore of Lake Erie Sunday to hear Brig-General Ernest Cruikshank, noted historian and chairman of the historic Monuments Commission of Canada, trace the history of the crumbling fort, built shortly after the Treaty of Paris, as a bulwark against warring Indian hands.

For over an hour General Cruikshank told the history of the old Fort and paid tribute to pioneers and to the troops who upheld the noble British traditions.

The two tablets commemorated the capture of two American sloops, Ohio and Somers, and the battle of Fort Erie.

THE BUMBLE FLOWER-BEETLE ON FRUIT

At the present time a considerable number of inquiries are being received from fruitgrowers about a beetle—the Bumble Flower-Beetle—which is attacking ripening fruit. This insect is a yellow-brown beetle, one-half inch or more in length, with its wing covers sprinkled all over with small irregular black spots. In late summer it is found every year, in greater or less numbers, feeding on the pollen of flowers, on ripe fruit—peaches, pears, grapes and apples—and also on corn, but it is rarely responsible for serious damage. In fact we have never seen the insect cause commercial injury in Ontario, and consequently we have never had occasion to advise the adoption of control measures.—W. A. Ross, Entomologist in charge, Dominion Entomological Laboratory, Vineland Station, Ont.

FOR TRESPASSING

A fruit trucker of Toronto, said ten dollars into Magistrate Campbell's court at Beamsville for trespassing on the C.N.R. premises, officers of the company had given trucks warning on more than one occasion in respect to doing business on the railway company's property and the disregard for this warning led to Goldmtr's appearance in court.

Montal loved them. Toronto was enthused. St. Catharines raved. You will see Monty's Marionettes in "Jack in the Beanstalk".

HEAVY FINE IMPOSED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Nick Goncher, St. Ann's farmer was found guilty on a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm, by Magistrate J. H. Campbell in police court at Smithville and was fined $96.50. The complainant was John Fitts a neighboring farmer, and the argument arose over the pasturing of cattle on certain property owned by Fitts, but taken over by the department of public highways when No. 20 highway was constructed. Crown Attorney E. H. Lancaster conducted the case for the Crown, while Stewart Fleming represented Goncher. The assault took place on August 22.

This cup is to be known as the "Thomas Barnes Trophy" and will be competed for annually for the 5 ounce accuracy bait casting for actual fishing tackle. With the trophy goes a smaller cup to remain in the possession of the winner. The public is invited to witness these events.

MANHATTAN NIGHT

SYNOPSIS. Five minutes after midnight he'll have the rest of the proof—unless we get the five grand. That's all. That is what Benny Rufano, hanger-on at Emma's night club, told Peter Wayne, who had been waiting to keep an appointment with Detective Sergeant Charlie Mitchell. This was less than 24 hours after Martha Thayer had found her husband, Tack, murdered in their penthouse. She and Egan Ross were suspected by Inspector Connolly and Benny was threatening that Connolly would learn who killed Tack Thayer and where the murderer hid the pistol. Martha, disheartened by the drunken Tack, had fallen in love with Ross, and Peter was in love with Martha. Benny had previously demanded $100 from Martha after Tack, while drunk, had lost heavily in a crap game at Emma's.

CHAPTER XXII.

"It don't fit in, Pete—and it don't add up right," said Charlie.

Peter, leaving Emma's, had walked out, and between Sixth Ave and Fifth Charlie had loomed up beside him in the darkness.

"You think Benny was bluffing?" asked Peter. He had, after a moment's hesitation, told Charlie of his talk with Benny. It was, he was afraid, risky; Charlie was, after all, a policeman, and, presumably, if he became convinced of Martha's guilt, he would turn against her. But that was a chance, it seemed to Peter, that, at this stage of the game, he had to take.

"Not bluffing, no—lying," said Charlie. He recalled, "I don't get it yet, Pete. But I will. What was you and the doc gabbing about?"

"Zahn?" said Peter. "How did you know I'd been talking to him at all?" Charlie chuckled.

"Told you I'd be at Emma's didn't I?" he said. "I could tell you things about that dive that'd surprise you; and some of 'em'd surprise Benny, too, bless his fat dago heart."

"But why he threatening Mrs. Thayer?"

"For five grand," said Charlie. "He told you. It's easy so far. He's got some dope like as not. Pete, you ain't on to it, but this night club racket's organized like some big corporation. They all work together. What one knows they all know. It stands to reason. They got to be lined up together against the Federal crowd—you'd be surprised, but some of them Federal dicks is on the level about getting evidence and goin' after convictions for sellin' bootch."

"I guess you was out of town when it was goin' strong, but there was a racket a while back that was good while it lasted. High class janes would show up with a lot of ice and go 'round among the night club—and be stuck up later. Sometimes it'd be in the lobby—once or twice it was after they got into their flats. An' blackmail—baby!"

"We don't know how much of that there is, but there's plenty. The ones that's being stood up won't squeal, but there's enough Jack in that racket to make the cover charges look like chicken feed. And you folks walk into these dives like they was Sherry's or the Ritz. You're as safe as a lamb would be if it went for a walk by itself in a jungle in Africa."

"Me, I don't get it. Here's you folks, that's got money, and that's well brought up, an' you head night after night for a lot of joints that make the honky-tonks they used to have on the Barbary Coast in Frisco look like a lot of Punch and Judy shows! You take a lot of nice young gals into places I'd crown my own sister with a nightgown for bein' seen in!"

"Why wouldn't there be trouble, every so often? Tain't as bad as it is this time, mostly. I'll admit, but that's luck. Chances are it wasn't meant to be so bad this time, either. If I had to make a guess I'd say no one meant to break this Thayer.... What'd the doc have to say, eh?"

Peter tried to remember, and, as well as he could, to translate Meyer Zahn's remarks.

"That's a lot of honey," said Charlie. "Was of sayin' a guy ought to be for himself first, last and all the time, ain't it?"

Peter laughed. But Charlie took the message Zahn had told Peter to give Martha more seriously.

"Thinks she done it, does he?" he said thoughtfully. "Now that's a fact one. He gets a hundred dollars an hour for knowin' all about people, and I'm just a bull that's apt to be back in harness tomorrow pounding a pavement—and still, I'd bet a year's pay the madam didn't have any more to do with killin' Thayer than I did myself."

Peter was oddly relieved.

"Did you find anything out yourself in Emma's?" he asked.

"Maybe yes—maybe no," said Charlie. "I'm not tellin' anythin' yet anyway. You go on home and try an' get some sleep."

And, with that excellent advice, in his ears, Peter, reluctantly, had to part company with the detective. He went home and to bed. At eight o'clock Manuel woke him, and after a cold shower and a breakfast, he went to his sister Carol's.

Bouton arrived soon after he did and they both talked to Martha. She was wide awake and extremely nervous; as Watson had predicted, she was in much worse shape than she had been the day before. Bouton had failed completely, the night before, so he heard what Ross had said; he was

Princess Elizabeth Is Growing 'P' Is Now Seven Years Old Resemblance To Queen Grows

Princess Elizabeth is growing up. The small, enchantingly grave, baby who once christened herself "Betty" has vanished for ever, and her place has been taken by an equally charming young lady of seven years.

Her likeness to the Queen grows more remarkable every day. Much to her Majesty's delight, and the comeliness, in a curious way, her mother's charm with her grandmother—a dignity and purposefulness, her gaiety, however, is all her own, and nowhere is it more apparent than in her smile, where she is adored by all the tenants and gillies around Glamis and Balmoral.

They love to see her starting off on a picnic with the Queen—one of her favorite treats, this—partially if the expedition leads to the new summer-house in the Park of Balmoral, which has been specially built for such occasions.

With a perfectly cut kilt of royal Stuart tartan and a hand-mittled pull-over of green, she hardly wears a hat, but allows her fair, wavy hair to blow happily in the wind. This hair, to give away a secret, is the envy of her small sister, Princess Margaret Rose, whose curls sometimes need a little gentle persuasion.

Princess Elizabeth is always delightfully maternal towards this younger sister of hers, and no wonder, for she is a delicious child, rather more fluffy and frilly than the fourth lady in the land, who is very severely and beautifully tailored nowadays, as befits one of her dignified age. Her military greatcoats and embroidered muslin smocks are at once the despair and inspiration of every mother in London.

These two royal sisters set nursery fashions everywhere.

If they are seen in red coats one morning, red coats are certain to break out all over the Park the next day, and they have done much to popularize the simple, streamlike type of dressing so becoming to the modern child.

They work and play, two charming and typically British little girls, in an atmosphere of perfect simplicity. Nursery teas in their airy pale blue and primrose suite at 145 Piccadilly are presided over by Mrs. Knight, their dignified nanny.

There is no formality—lucky children invited to share their fun never curtsy—and the time-honored rule of "bread and butter first" is always most firmly enforced.

One small guest returned home from a royal tea party, and plaintively asked her mother:

"What is the use of being a Princess if you can't start with chocolate cake?"

Princess Elizabeth is something of a tomboy, and so has much in common with her two cousins, Lord Lascelles and his younger brother Gerald. Another small companion, also a cousin, is "Jamie," the sturdy brown-eyed son of Lady Maude Carnegie, the King's favorite niece. Although he is only three, he is quite undaunted, and insists on taking part in all their games, however strenuous.

"The children next door," too, play a great part in the life of our birthday Princess.

Their mother, Lady Allendale, gives an annual Christmas party at 144 Piccadilly, which is always honoured by her presence. Nicholas Beaumont, nicknamed "Tuppenny," the third son of the house, is a special favourite and this happy little group indulge in many thrilling bicycle races together, quite unconscious of the admiring crowd which gathers to peer at them through the railings whenever word goes round that "they" are out in Hamilton Gardens.

Lady Doris Vyner, one of the Duchess of York's best friends, has a pretty little Elizabeth of her own, named after her royal godmother, and she and her brothers, Charles and Henry, are all active members of this youthful circle.

Princess Elizabeth shares with them the joys of her gramophone, a present from the King, who understands his granddaughter's musical tastes perfectly, and keeps her well supplied with records of all the latest—and the loudest—military marches!

The Princess is not merely an admirable hostess. Her perfect dignity, remarkable power of forming quick decisions, and faculty for knowing what she wants, combine to make her the natural leader of the "Nursery Party."

So her days go by, filled with games and lessons and the other normal activities of little girls of seven, while all England watches with love and admiration this specially sweet seven-year-old, who is also their own Princess.

Undertakes To Explain Pickford-Fairbanks Trouble

New York.—Victor McLaglen, British-born motion picture actor and former soldier of fortune, analyzed the Mary Pickford-Douglas Fairbanks domestic situation for ship news reporters when he arrived on the Olympic.

"She loves Douglas Fairbanks and he loves her," said McLaglen, "but she attained everything she could ask for, and he did in his way, and the trouble was she didn't look up to Douglas. That's all!"

McLaglen, who was enroute to California after making a picture in England, said Miss Pickford "is the sweetest woman in Hollywood. None other can touch her."

Explaining he was "taking a chance" in saying so, he added that Marlene Dietrich is the "most intelligent" woman in Hollywood and Marion Davies is "the finest woman in Hollywood when it comes to the humanities of life."

"Hello, Bob. Glad to see you. I just got back from my vacation." "Sorry, old man. I can't lend you a cent. I'm just going on mine."

"Shower" for Bridegroom Introduced by Men

Seattle.—A shower for prospective bridegrooms is the latest in social events.

Truman C. Craig, who will marry Sally Crocker in Tacoma, Sept. 23, was honored at such a party by his male friends.

The gifts included dish cloths, boxing gloves and a mail order catalogue.

Granted!

Seeking a divorce decree, Mrs. Alida Doebler of Chicago said her husband was absent-minded. "He even forgot I was his wife," said she. "He criticized me for trying to flirt with him on the street." The decree was granted.

Sleeping Sickness In Two Types

Scientists Declare St. Louis Epidemic Different from Malady in Other Parts of Country

Baton Rouge, La.—Herbert Brown, 27-year-old ex-soldier, has offered himself as an experimental subject in the fight against sleeping sickness.

Brown described himself as a victim of tuberculosis, unable to work, and expressed the desire to "do something useful before I die." He asked that physicians in St. Louis, where encephalitis had made heavy inroads, should be made acquainted with his offer.

St. Louis, Mo.—Scientists studying the "sleeping sickness" epidemic here were of the general belief that the encephalitis outbreaks in other parts of the United States were of a different type than the St. Louis malady.

Two deaths, believed to have been caused by sleeping sickness, occurred in Kansas City, Kan., within 24 hours, and six cases have been reported over Kansas. Ten cases have developed in Kansas City. Mo. Another death was reported at Fort Smith, Ark. The death list rose to 47 in St. Louis.

"There are two types of encephalitis which make their appearance in many communities," said Dr. Paul Zentgraf, assistant health commissioner. "They are the sporadic type, which usually follows another illness such as measles, whooping cough or other types of body infection, and the lethargic encephalitis, which is a primary disease."

At Jefferson City, Mo., Mrs. Mary Edna Crozen, State Labor Commissioner, said she had written St. Louis County health officials asking them to determine whether "filthy bedding" was contributing to the epidemic.

Mrs. Curzen said she had closed several mattress firms, where inspectors found "filthy conditions," and that other firms voluntarily cleaned up when they "saw we meant business."

Washington.—The Associated Press has asked me for an article on epidemic encephalitis, the "sleeping sickness" which in the past month has resulted in 45 deaths, 320 cases, in St. Louis, writes Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon-General of the Public Health Service.

My experience is that the Press is the most valuable adjunct of the Public Health Service in meeting such epidemics. It gives the people information for their protection.

Not since the poliomyelitis epidemic in New York in 1916 has this service been confronted with an epidemic of such imperative need immediate and intensive study. To further it, I am asking the Treasury Department for $25,000.

Knitting Competition For Women of Empire

Pitts organizations of Australian women, urban and rural, are making busy preparations for the Centenary Celebrations beginning in October next year. They are raising $25,000 by a shilling drive and hope to gain much more by selling little books and certificates giving biographies of women pioneers and graphic scenes from their lives. A bronze statue will probably be erected bearing memorial panels to women pioneers, country nursing colleges, a cancer hospital ward, extensions of children's welfare work, a college of social science, civic beautification schemes—proposals like these make up an extensive program. One of the features will be an Empire Knitting Competition with Australian wool, for which there will be rich prizes open to every woman under the British flag. Full information can be obtained from Brigadier-General Jess, Town Hall, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia.

Oldest Town Crier in England

Sam Smy, of Orford, the oldest town crier, has just celebrated his nineteenth birthday. Mr. Smy was a powder-boy in the Crimea, and has 200 grand and great-grandchildren.

He became town crier 70 years ago, and nearly all the inhabitants of Orford are his relatives.

Mr. Smy's duties are very varied. He must call the inhabitants to a fire when one occurs. He also takes visitors to the castle and tells them all about it.

In private life he is the village rag-and-bone man, newspaper man, chimney sweep and fisherman. He has a small holding on which he keeps pigs and poultry and grows vegetables and fruit.

Minnesota Deaths

St. Paul, Minn.—The State Department of Health have announced that 20 of 28 cases of encephalitis or "sleeping sickness" reported in Minnesota since January 1 had resulted in death. There are four cases at present.

Dr. A. J. Chesley, department head, said the fatalities occurred in western and southern Minnesota. He asserted that the situation was no worse than any other year since the first Minnesota case appeared in 1919.

19th Motor Offense

English Mayor Sorry He Can Only Fine Titled Culpit

In inflicting two fines on Lady Aline Barnett of Sopwell, sister of the fourth Earl of Verulam, H. F. Gibbs, the Mayor of St. Albans, remarked:

"This is her nineteenth motoring conviction. I do not recall the name of another woman in the country who has had so many. Two distressing features of her cases are, that she is always summoned but never arrested, and that she consequently never appears in person, but is always represented by counsel."

"I am not suggesting that the constables who summon her do not do their duty, but it must be evident that if she were brought here on a warrant, she would then be obliged to listen to what we might wish to say and I would have the privilege of depriving her Ladyship of her license, which I cannot do under a summons."

Lady Aline Barnett is 26 years of age and the wife of Geoffrey Arthur Barnett. In the present case against her she was fine $100 for driving a car "without reasonable consideration for other persons," and $100 for failing to give her name and address after an accident.

Through her counsel, as usual, she pleaded not guilty to the first summons and guilty to the second. Her lawyer read out a statement prepared by her and strongly intimated that all the constables in the country were prejudiced against her driving.

In her statement she alleged that the accident in which she was involved was due to the other motorist not keeping a proper lookout. On the second charge, she said she was unaware that she had to give her name and address in a case where no persons were injured.

Government Approves Plan for Huge Reservoir 2,000 Miles in the Interior

Cairo, Egypt.—It may be stated authoritatively that the government of Egypt has decided upon the damming of Lake Albert in Central Africa to increase the supply of stored water for the future irrigation of Egypt.

The dam will have the effect of turning the lake into a vast reservoir which will hold 50,000,000,000 cubic meters of water available for irrigation.

The water thus stored in Lake Albert must flow more than 2,000 miles to Egypt and be conducted either through or around the almost 400 miles of vast swamps through which the White Nile flows after entering the Sudan plains.

The work so far performed has consisted of a scientific study of the hydrology of the Nile. It began with the introductions of current meters by Sir Henry Lyons in 1902, and it is far from being completed. But it has progressed sufficiently to enable a statement of the Lake Albert irrigation project to be made.

In 1923 the Ministry of Public Works of Egypt sent a mission up the Nile to the great lakes in Central Africa to draw up a program for investigations in connection with possible irrigation projects in this region. This was followed by two missions to the lake plateau in 1924 and 1926, and to the Bahr el Ghazal (Gazelle River) in 1930 and 1931. In the 1930 expedition, the White Nile and its tributaries were seen from the air and the value of aerial reconnaissance in the study of hydrology was established.

During recent years the irrigation service of Egypt has mapped a good deal of country to the east of the Bahr el Zeraf (Giraffe River) and from the Bahr el Ghazal (Mountain River) via the Vevano River to the Pibor River in connection with projects to train the Nile around the swamp region and thus prevent the loss of water to be released from Lake Albert.

It may take from twenty-five to fifty years to complete.

Tea Restriction

In April a restriction was placed on tea exports from Ceylon, India, and Java, in order to raise prices to growers, who, for almost four years, had been suffering devastating losses. Higher prices have resulted, not only in the gardens, but also here on our markets, and many packages less already.

Tea brands are as yet unchanged, however, and are, consequently, even better value than at last April.

It is estimated that of Gt. Britain's total population of 44,500,000 persons quite half are smokers.

Prince of Wales Favors Check

Gay Golfing Kits Brighten up British Courses

London, Eng.—The Prince of Wales, ordinarily one of the most conservative of dressers either on the golf course or elsewhere, has broken away from his old custom, and now favors sporting checks of gay and pronounced designs when playing his favorite game.

The Prince's new golfing kit has meant nearly a half million dollars in new business to London's happy haberdashers. Most men golfers are copying the sartorial vogue set up by the Prince.

Orders are pouring in from everywhere, many of them from this continent.

In his latest golf matches, both against Lady Astor and in the final of the parliamentary golf handicap, the Prince wore vividly checked "plus four" breeches and a brightly checked shirt to match. Had it been anybody but the Prince dared to invade the old links so attired, there would have been groans and moans from the old-fashioned "hickory-swingers." But the new costume has the royal cachet; and it stands. "The links are as bright as in consequence."

Old-timers who used to patter a round the course in an old pair of flannel trousers and a tweed coat are now conspicuous and gradually they are falling for the new outfits.

Apart from the golf links, the Prince's dressing example is still closely followed. It is the Prince who keeps the derby hat in popularity.

One of the reasons the Prince is so faithful to the little "ard" 'at is because it is easy to raise in answer to the salutes he receives wherever he goes.

The fashion for suede shoes was set by him. Since he first appeared in a blue scarf with white spots hundreds of thousands of these have been exported from London and Manchester to all parts of the world. Before then no men's outfitter could sell a dozen in a year.

The Raglan coat was made a good seller through its adoption by the Prince, and the Scottish woolen industry has been stimulated in consequence.

Egypt to Dam African Lake

Staying on Top — Lanny Ross To Make Pictures — Dave Miller Goes Musical

"Four Aces" Go Full Speed

The life of a radio artist isn't easy by any means, and we can judge that by this group of young radio artists. Toronto has a new recording studio where you can drop in and sing, talk, play a musical instrument, or in fact do anything in the entertainment line, and a record can be made of the whole proceedings. The "Four Aces" spent two hours in this studio Monday night making records of the song hits which they have presented over the air from time to time. Two hours of recording in three and a half hours, but to pack up and then run to the broadcasting studio and present a Commission program would tell on the best, and that's not all—after their broadcast they shuffled off to spend another four or five hours rehearsing for next week's presentation. Well, maybe this is the life of the radio artist,—full speed ahead—it's speed that has placed this popular Canadian quartette at the top of the list.

The Old Maestro

Ben Bernie and all the Lads are scheduled to entertain folks from coast to coast for another year. . . So "Yowah," "I Hope You Like It," "To Give Me," and all the rest of the familiar Bernie-isms that have endeared the Maestro to the hearts of show, dance and radio lovers from one ocean to the other will continue to ring out weekly. The show will continue along the same lines as in past programs . . . and this will be Bernie's third successive year of broadcasting under the same sponsorship . . . with probably one new note . . . variety.

Lanny Ross Goes Hollywood . . . ?

Lanny, of Captain Henry's Showboat will go to Hollywood to commence work on his first picture shortly. His screen contract will not interfere with his radio work, and his part in the broadcast will be picked up from the West Coast. Lanny has had a successful radio career with Showboat and this played no small part in his being chosen for the silver screen . . . he has sung in numerous motion picture theatres and in vaudeville in addition to his broadcasting activity.

We Hear That—

George Kettledge, pianist heard on Commission broadcasts, has completed negotiations to have several of his splendid songs published. George, by the way speaks six or seven languages. . . is a fine wrestler. . . teaches courses at the University of Toronto, and for recreation tickles the ivories. Dave Miller until lately associated with station CFRB has gone musical. Dave surprised a large audience the other evening when he calmly walked to the microphone and burst forth in song, and he has some voice too. Since leaving CFRB Dave has become connected with an advertising company in Toronto, and is assistant director of radio . . . rightly so . . . there isn't much you can tell the same Dave about the broadcasting business. Al and Bob Harvey, the popular comedy and singing team are still doing things in a big way on the other side of the pond. The English audience has taken to the way these two boys present their programs. Jimmie Shields, who sang under an incognito as the "Golden Masked Tenor" has taken New York by storm. Jimmie possessed one of the finest tenor voices ever to be heard over a Canadian station. It's too bad to have to sit back and watch our best entertainers being picked up by American sponsors.

Easy-to-Make

By HELEN WILLIAMS.

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished with Every Pattern.

Very graceful and lovely is this tricky costume slip.

The clever bias lines running from the centre-front and centre-back and meeting at the side seam at the waistline, provide a new and becoming cut to slenderize the figure.

The upper and lower edges may be trimmed with lace, or finished with bias bands.

You can easily run it up on the sewing machine in an hour. Its small cost will surprise you.

Style No. 3416 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches bust. Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 3 yards of lace.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 15c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Tekla Pearl Man Made

Tekla pearls are made from a species of Hungarian fish that is found in Lake Balaton, which contains red gold fish. A kind of whitening and sheen supply the scales used for the manufacture of "Tekla pearls." There are two laboratories on the lakeshore, at Siofok and Fonyod, where microscopic crystals are extracted by a treatment with ammonia from the scales scraped off the fish. The product is the raw material of the "Balaton pearl essence."

Glass beads receive a coating of this essence, which lends them that warm, glossy shine that makes it so difficult to the eye to distinguish "Tekla" from genuine pearls. The coating, however, is not done in Hungary, but mostly in the pearl laboratories of France, Spain and Japan. It is the essence which is exported from Hungary, on the scales themselves, salted down in barrels.

The most interesting income you will receive from good work is the increased ability to do better work. Van Amburg.

Japanese Nurses in Training

In addition to their regular courses, Japanese nurses now have gas mask drills. Japan evidently believes in preparedness or is it expectation?

Where is the Profit in Advertising?

(By Bruce B. Brewer in the Simcoe Reformers)

You will frequently see in big city papers a half-page advertisement featuring only one item, a woman's hat for example.

That advertisement may have cost $50, and you wonder how it will pay for itself.

Some women went and bought that hat. There was profit in that. Others who went in didn't like that particular hat, but bought another. There was profit in that.

There was profit in that. Some bought no hat at all, but passed other counters where they saw other things which they bought. There was profit in that.

Of those who came there were some who had not been regular patrons but who will come back some day to buy something else. And there will be a profit in that over a long period of time.

But the largest profit of all is from those who do not come in as a result of the hat advertisement at all. They are the many who, when they saw the advertisement, were reminded that the store sells the type of goods they like, and so they decide to shop in that store the next time they go to town.

This latter group will outnumber all the other groups combined, perhaps as much as 50 to 1 or 100 to 1.

Merchants who expect every ad in their local weekly to literally "pull its head off" should keep in mind that big city advertisers expect no such results. They depend on the steady pull of advertising to build always a larger group of buyers who will at least remember their store often enough to come in.

It is fine, but foolish, to expect quick miracles from advertising. But go in to it, believing in its long pull results, and you will see results in a steadily growing list of customers.

Best Seller

It is satisfactory, from every point of view, to be assured by statistics that the Bible is still the world's best seller, writes the London Saturday Review. For in that Book are found not only the one permanent consolation, and the one impregnable hope of a shivering age, but the indispensable treasury of our language. It is, of course, possible to write well and to appreciate what is written well without a close knowledge of the Bible and its inspired companion, the Book of Common Prayer. But it is much more difficult by such ignorance. There is no such literature outside its pages and there are no such beauties, splendours and harmonies as its phrases furnish. Yet, best seller of all, the Bible is either little known or known only in parts to the modern who imagine themselves educated. If their spirit cannot tolerate the message, their intelligence might accept the style.

Shorter Skirts Now?

It has been generally accepted in the past that women's styles originated in Paris and men's in London, but it seems, according to latest reports, that Queen Mary is about to take a hand in the matter and it is not unlikely that her lead will be followed by a large number. Her Majesty, despatches say, "caused a pronounced feminine flutter," a few days ago by appearing at a garden party at Buckingham Palace in a dress that stopped short of the ground by perhaps seven inches. "Almost every other woman present was wearing ground-sweeping skirts, but Her Majesty was given strong support by Lady Mountbatten, whose skirt was even shorter than the Queen's, dropping only somewhat below the knee."

With two such distinguished personages appearing as advocates of the shorter skirt, it is probable that the ground-trailing dress will soon be a thing of the past in London society. The reverence of responsibility is the finest kind of worship.

Woman's Chatter...

By MAIR M. MORGAN

SENTIMENT TODAY

I had a three-hour wait in London for my bus to the shores of Lake Huron. It proved to be an interesting interval. Sentiment seems almost out of date in these days of rushing around. A sturdy old man entered the station and enquired how he could get to Parkhill. "It's nigh on twenty-five years since I was in these parts," he declared. I picked up my ears—an old-timer. He had travelled all the way from Edmonton just for a glimpse of his grandfather's homestead and to renew his fading memories Ontario. No doubt there are many who would like to return to early scenes but how few bother or perhaps—have the time!

MORE THAN EVER NECESSARY

If you haven't already purchased "Fixing Up The House" by F. Lionel de N. Scott, reviewed in this column early in the summer, I'd advise you to do so now that winter draws nigh. There are so many helpful suggestions and every home will need some changes, like our wardrobes. One page entitled "What You Can Do If You Have No Money" appeals to me and no doubt to many of my readers. I tried one suggestion—"Cover your walls with brown wrapping paper, and stencil designs on it" and everyone is remarking how charming and different (a small rather dull room before) appears today.

A VICAR ADVISES HUSBANDS

Someone is always offering suggestions to married folks. It would be interesting to know if they follow the advice they give so freely, in their own homes. This time, it is the Vicar of St. Paul's, Westcliff, England, who sits in judgment and offers quite a heavy list: 1. If your wife is not as pretty as she was, it may be that she finds life with you rather wearing. 2. What money you have belongs to your wife as well, of course, but do you ever give her 5s. for her very own, or £5 in thankfulness for ten or twenty years. 3. Plan a day's outing for yourself and wife and tell her nothing except to be ready half an hour before the time you want her. A day spent like this is good fun. 4. If your wife asks you "What shall we have for dinner tomorrow?" always answer "Steak and Kidney Pudding." After a few years she will tire of hearing it. 5. Your wife knows you love her, but she would rather hear you say it than have a new dress. And last, but not least—always remember that if your wife says a thing is so, it is so—whether it is so or not! Of them all, I should say the last would be the most difficult!

THE VILLAGE EXPANDS

Toronto's Village in the Old Ward is very lusty these days. No signs of Old Man Depression around there. Bright new paint, cheerful faces, sounds of industry, etc. Since my last visit—there are several new members. The village now has a blacksmith in the person of William Stott, a charming person with a Scottish burr. His iron stair-cases, enclosures for radiators, and chairs are the very best workmanship and to see them in the making is a thrilling sight. Across from the village blacksmith is Maise Moulton's What-Not-Shop, 16 LaPlante Avenue, gay in yellow and orange paint. She has a lovely collection of old glass, over one hundred years old, in crystal, wine red, and bottle green. Oils by A. Strodryk—some lovely water colors by a young Toronto amateur J. McCall, and some unique bridge prizes. There is also a lovely Chinese robe displayed, which was picked up in the Thieves' Market, London, England, together with some odd pieces of Chinese embroidery and prints. I understand she is also going to display some fascinating dolls—not the usual fussy French type—but dolls who immediately capture your imagination. They are the creations of Hazel Day who has travelled as far as Tahiti to get the right costume, facial features, etc., of her Tahitian dolls. If you visit the village—don't forget Mary John's Tea Shop—she is now serving the most delicious steaks and chops.

BOOKS

Louis Bromfield's new book "The Farm" is a book for the Fall days. There is a wealth of incident, rich store of character and pungent comment. Bess Streeter Aldrich will win new readers with "Miss Bishop".

The Local Newspaper

The local newspaper is a show window of the community to the outside world. People judge a town to a large extent by the quality of its community newspaper and by what they read in it.

Frequently a stranger living at a distance will subscribe for a local newspaper for the purpose of sizing up the town. Perhaps he is looking for a suitable community in which to make his home, perhaps he is looking for a location for a factory or for a place to start a business which would help build up the town and surrounding district.

It is a good thing to co-operate heartily in maintaining the local newspaper. This can be done in many ways. One way which may not have occurred to you, is to put the editor in touch with attractive news material that may come to your notice, little things that may reflect credit upon the town and thus enable your community to put its best foot forward in meeting the outside world.—St. Mary's Journal-Argus.

A Warning

In a sense the American city has defeated itself, and New York is a striking example of that defeat, comments the New York Nation. Every new high building on the Island of Manhattan has risen at the expense of those below it. Twenty-story offices have cut off the light and air of those of ten stories, forty-story structures have done the same for twenty-story buildings, and sixty-story skyscrapers have completed the havoc.

The failure of New York years ago properly to limit the height of its buildings has brought to pass that in

Gleanings

Niagara Falls, N.Y., as far as honeymooners are concerned, got something of a "kick" when a couple drove in with six in it. These were sisters, residents of Morpeth, Ont. Others were their newly-wedded husbands, all bent on honeymooning.

Canada's domestic exports to British Empire countries in July totalled over $2 million dollars, an increase of 31 per cent. over July, 1932, and was the highest monthly since since October, 1931. To the United Kingdom the increase was 32 per cent.

Since July 30, nine St. Louis residents have died of sleeping sickness while 100 others have been hospitalized. A new outbreak was reported last week when in one day 17 new cases were found.

King Carol of Rumania was nearly getting over a severe attack of the when he was stricken by another malady—measles. He is believed to have contracted them from Crown Prince Michael, his son.

Secret police in Berlin last week arrested the Nazi storm trooper who struck a Brooklyn, N.Y., policeman while the latter was waiting a passage. Official action is being taken against the soldier.

Commencing Sept. 1, Ontario motor licenses for passenger cars and trucks were cut in half. At that, the department reports, revenue from passenger license plates is only down 5 per cent. from last year; trucks 5 1/2 per cent.

Driving a car containing a supply of firearms, a 14-year-old Toronto boy was last week stopped by police at Brantford while driving his father's car. The youngster was returned to his home and given a sound spanking.

Principals of public schools throughout Ontario are being notified by the Department of Education that five-year-old children will not be admitted this year. Under a new ruling, six is the minimum age.

Men of Old Fire Brigades Constantly on Duty

Montreal.—Fire fighting before the coming of the high-pressure hose chemicals and other modern aids of the fireman certainly included none of the advantages it has today, according to Fire Director Christopher Carson, one of the few existing members of the "Old Brigade" and now head of the Montreal Fire Department. Director Carson can recall the days of the firemen before the coming of the automotive age.

In those days a fireman had to be on duty 24 hours of the day, seven days a week, receiving one day off each month. All this for the small salary of 75 cents a day. Their pay now runs to a little less than $5 a day when rates for the pension fund have been deducted.

The job was a very tiring one. The only method of engaging one's mind was the recreation of playing cards, this often ending in a fisty bout as the men's nerves were worn with the long and dreary wait for the fire call. Feeding the horse, keeping the fire trucks, and the station clean were other methods of killing time, but his work was soon finished and the men were back where they started from.

Sea Bird Cruises At 70 Miles Per Hour

London.—Racing over the English Channel in a speedboat at more than 60 m.p.h., Mr. Angus Miller was overtaken and rapidly left behind by a small sea bird.

Mr. Miller was surprised. So were bird authorities. As the speedboat must have been travelling at more than 60 m.p.h., being in the process of breaking a record, the speed at which the bird swept past suggested that its cruising speed must have been nearly 70 m.p.h. This is worrying bird authorities as it upsets all present theories as to the speed of every type of sea bird. Nobody appears to know what species the record breaker could have been.

The only English birds which have been known to achieve speeds of that magnitude are land birds. The swift can reach such a speed with little difficulty, while the falcon has been known to catch the swift on the level.

In a dive an eagle is said to reach a velocity of 100 m.p.h. But a cruising speed of 70 is considered rare for any bird. Homing pigeons are "clocked in" at averages of 50 m.p.h. over long distances.

Do Wives Need Training To Speak More Fluently?

Cleveland.—Ten married men in a Penn College public speaking class asked to be permitted to bring their wives to class—at one fare and a ter due consideration, then replied:

"Any married man who has the courage to train his wife to speak even more fluently than she does now should be congratulated. Your studies must have given you unusual confidence, and you deserve a reward. 'Bring your wives along.'"

JACK IN THE BEANSTALK A MECHANICAL EFFICIENCY

In commenting on a recent presentation of Gordon Hammond's 1933 edition of Monty's Marionettes in "Jack in the Beanstalk," playing under the auspices of the Students Council in the High School, Thursday evening, Morgan Powell, the well known dramatic critic for the Montreal Star says:

"There is more than just a mere re-telling of the old tale of 'Jack in the Beanstalk' in the production of 'Monty's Marionettes.' There is a certain amount of enthusiasm and ability to do something novel, and at the same time worth while to fashion a puppet show. The excellent result was displayed upon a stage within a stage at His Majesty's Theatre, and a hitherto skeptical mind was genuinely amazed at the artistry and the mechanical efficiency of the entire program. The little figures struck very human attitudes, as they strutted about the miniature forests in the performance of their histrionic duty. There was Jack and his distraught grandmother. There was the land-lord demanding the rent, but there was also the depression (for this is a complete version of the famous fairy legend) Daphne, the cow that 'moored' with a distinct ear for music, had to be sold for a handful of beans—but what beans; there was the interminable beanstalk, the giant castle and the brute of a giant, and there was

RELIGIOUS CAMPAIGN BY PROTESTANT CHURCHES

Aroused to the realization that a reawakening of individual religious responsibility is sorely needed, a united effort on the part of all Protestant denominations in the Niagara district and Western Ontario, culminating in a fortnight evangelistic campaign in February, is shortly to be launched. Each denominational body is to carry on during the fall and winter months in its own individual way, but the object striven for will be the same, the reclaiming of all the hundreds of people who have drifted away from public worship and recognition of Biblical teachings.

The first step in the united campaign was taken recently, when representatives of all the Protestant denominational bodies attended at the office of the Niagara Anglican synod and supported the following resolution: "That we, the executive and convenors of committee actively engaged in Christian work in our own respective churches and organizations in Western Ontario and Niagara peninsula hereby agree upon: 1. the importance in the near future of joining in an effort to promote spiritual welfare of the people in the various communities in which we serve; 2. that we recommend that an intensive effort be made in every congregation in our various constituencies permeating in a special evangelistic campaign to be held as near as possible to the first two weeks of February, 1934."

NEW CLERK AT PT. COLBORNE

Harry V. Grout, well known resident of Kent street, Port Colborne, and formerly a member of the staff of the Welland ship canal, has been named clerk and treasurer of the town of Port Colborne, to succeed H. F. Johnson. Mr. Grout's duties will commence at once, although he will not take full charge of the books until after an audit by the town auditor, Henry Barber, Mapp & Mapp. Mr. Grout was elected at a special meeting of the Port Colborne council.

the gold. It is all executed with such precision of purpose, and so thorough an appreciation of the principles of the puppet medium that one ventures to suggest that technicians and players have been laboring at their work for many moons. In the stage setting, the dressing of dolls, and the lighting of the piece generally, excellent work has been achieved, while the little Marionettes orchestra, which plays the overtures and entr'acte selections with consummate gusto, is a stroke of good showmanship. Youngsters "from three to ninety-three," who have had the good fortune to see these gay young folk on strings, ought to feel quite proud that something so "delightfully different" has been accomplished. A word should be given to the "voices," not listed on the program, and are in all cases, clear and sound.

Local Items of Interest

The Grimsby Town Council meets in regular session this Wednesday evening.

The regular quarterly communion was observed in Trinity United church on Sunday, the pastor Rev. E. A. Earlsman officiating.

The annual picnic of the Hamilton Ad Club was held at Grimsby Beach casino on Monday evening at which there was an unusually large attendance. Dick Fonger's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing.

The Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church will hold their regular monthly meeting on Thursday, September 21st, instead of September 14th.

The colder weather will be welcomed by fruit growers generally as the hot weather had the effect of bringing everything on at one time, which necessitated many picking fruit all day Sunday.

Lincoln Loyalist Chapter, I. O. O. E. will hold its annual tag day on Saturday next, September 16th. The proceeds will go to the town relief fund. This is a worthy undertaking and doubtless citizens will respond generously to the appeal being made on that day.

Daylight Saving which has been in force here for several months will end in Grimsby at midnight of Saturday next, September 16th. Hamilton and Beamsville also revert to standard time on that date.

The price of gasoline has been increased another cent. The cheap or third grade of gas is being withdrawn from the market and no further supply will be available according to service station operators.

A seven day jail term was given Gordon W. Fewster, 207 Maple Ave., Hamilton on a drunk driving charge by Magistrate Campbell in county court. Brewster was involved in collision with another Hamilton car at which time he was allowed to go. He was arrested by Provincial Constable Bond a few days ago.

The Grimsby Mothers' Club, will meet at the home of Mrs. Meldrum Pettit, 15 Ontario Street on Thursday, September 21st, at 3 o'clock. There will be a miscellaneous program and time will be given for healthful discussion.

A remarkable new vegetable has been introduced by a former resident of Grimsby, Mr. John MacDonald, now of Niagara Falls, N.Y. On display in Boulter's Meat Market window is a specimen of the New Guinea Butter Bean, grown by him, measuring fifty-three inches in length. The vegetable is prepared for consumption in a similar manner to the egg plant.

Citizens are reminded that all appeals in connection with the Town Voters' List must be in by September 21st in regards to any errors or omissions in order to insure that their names appear on the Voters' List.

SMITHVILLE FAIR SEPTEMBER 14 & 15

September 14 and 15 are the two days on which the Smithville fall fair will be held. Among the numerous items on the list are: Beauty contest for young women, 16 to 21; baby show, tug-of-war between the single and married men, bicycle race for boys under 15 years, and many other events.

St. Catharines Population Is Now 26,394 Increase of 233

The population of St. Catharines continues to grow, 253 having been added in the last year, bringing the total to 26,394, according to the 18th annual report of the assessment commission, presented to the city council last week by Commissioner James W. Young. The comparative statement, shows a taxable assessment of $24,907,555. A decrease in land assessment of $69,325 is largely accounted for by the purchase of vacant lots by the city at the tax sale last year. An increase was shown in buildings of $39,850 with a decrease in business of $32,950 and a decrease in income of $197,375.

NO PROSECUTION
Crown Attorney E. H. Lancaster has decided that the evidence in connection with a complaint regarding overcharge for chicken dinners on the highway near Jordan is insufficient for prosecution. In any event, he pointed out, the evidence there is now in Detroit.

CATTLE DIED SUDDENLY

Two head of cattle that died suddenly on the farm of Mat McDermott near Port Carling, were found to have succumbed to one of the most deadly diseases that attacks men and animals. The disease was identified as anthrax.

The two cows, part of a herd supplying milk to summer campers all season died a few days ago and the department of agriculture at Toronto was notified. Specialists from the department went to Port Carling and after making autopsies on the animals, pronounced death due to anthrax.

Other animals in the herd have as yet shown no symptoms of the pernicious disease. The McDermott herd, will, however, be quarantined and herds of neighboring farmers will be watched. The carcasses of the dead cattle will be burned.

Cottagers who had bought milk from the McDermott farm have not reported any illness.

TWO VALUABLE PUPPIES LOST ON HIGHWAY

Some place along the highway between Grimsby and St. Catharines two valuable puppies were lost on Saturday morning. An employer of their owner, a wealthy Pennsylvania resident, was taking the puppies home in a crate, which was placed in the back of the car. They were sitting at Grimsby, but when he arrived at St. Catharines the pups were gone. Inquiries were made all along the road, but so far as could be learned they were not found. The puppies were thoroughbreds and were valued at about $50 each.

TWO GIRLS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Two little girls had a very narrow escape from death or serious injury on the highway a couple of miles west of town Monday. They were walking along the sidewalk when the younger one suddenly darted out to the highway almost directly in the path of a speeding motor car. The older child without a moment's hesitation jumped out between the oncoming car and the younger girl. She threw or shoved the little girl to one side and, unable to get clear, turned her back to the oncoming car. The driver was able,
by a quick swerve to clear the kiddies by a very few inches. The fender of his car touched the clothing of the girl.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Bath Platt

The death of Altha Anne Van
Dusen, wife of Bath Platt, occurred
Monday morning at her home, Lake avenue, Stoney Creek, at the age of 77 years. Mrs. Platt had been a resident of Stoney Creek for about 38 years, and was an outstanding church worker, actively associated with all phases of church life at Stoney Creek United church. For several years she had acted as president of the ladies' auxiliary. Highly esteemed in the village, where she had lived for many years, her passing will be a distinct loss to the community. She leaves to mourn besides her husband, one son, Joseph Platt, of Stoney Creek, and a sister, Mrs. John Cox, of this city.
The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the above address and interment will be made in Stoney Creek cemetery.

Mrs. Louis Larsen

After a lingering illness, Mrs. Louis Larsen passed away at her late residence, 74 Livingston Ave., Grimsby, on Wednesday, September 6th, in her 67th year. Mrs. Larsen was born at Copenhagen, Denmark and came to Canada 50 years ago, residing here for the past 42 years. Only a few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Larsen enjoyed visiting their old homes and relatives and renewing old acquaintances in Denmark. Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters: Mrs. Morley Ellwood Brown of Niagara Falls, Ont. and Mrs. Ann C. McGregor formerly of Toronto and Los Angeles, and two sons: Lester E. of Grimsby and William Louis of Los Angeles, California.

The funeral was held from her late home on Friday afternoon, Rev. J. Allan Ballard, of St. Andrew's Church,

Mrs. Mary M. Culp

The largest funeral that the Jordan district has ever known was held Sunday when Mrs. Mary M. Culp, prominent resident was laid to rest. Mrs.
Culp died on Friday after a long illness. She was in her eighty-fourth year.
The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Simon Edwards of St. Paul's United Church, St. Catharines, assisted by the Rev. Ray Albright of the Jordan Station Church and Rev. R.
Keefer of R. R. 2, Freeman. Interment took place at Vineland Cemetery. The late Mrs. Culp was born at Vineland in 1850 and had lived in this district most of her life. She married Samuel M. Culp in 1869, and they took up farming in the Vineland district.
After the death of her husband in 1888 Mrs. Culp moved to St. Catharines, where she resided for twenty-five years. She was very active in work at St. Paul's United Church and was once President of the W. C. T. U.
of Lincoln and Welland Counties.
She leaves one sister, Mrs. Sarah Gayman of Vineland, and one half-brother, Elmon Moyer, also of Vine-

go Sack.

Johnny Farrell, son of Leslie J. Farrell, was at the Exhibition with Miss Morris over the week-end, these two young people attending as guests of the Wrigley Company. Johnny says he never had such a time in all his life, and the Wrigley firm was sparing a nickel to give these two from Grimsby a rip-rarin' time. They put up at the Royal York. Johnny says they went up to the twelfth floor in the elevator and then walked down the twelve flights. If any of the boys see Johnny they will readily understand why the song was composed, "When Johnny Comes Home From the Fair".
The young lady was also delighted with the trip. And did they chew gum!
They both admit their jaws were very tired. What a life!

Says Election Was Not Discussed

"The Ontario cabinet has never as yet sat down and discussed and considered the matter of an election," said Premier George S. Henry, last week. "But some day in the near future, when the ministers are all back at their desks, we will sit down and consider it," he said.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former premier and new high commissioner to Great Britain, was expressing his own personal views when he declared there would be no election and suggesting it might be well to loosen up the beer and wine end of the Liquor Control act, said Mr. Henry.

Beamsville Chief Settles Petty Quarrels In Tp.

Send a motor car if you are calling the Beamsville Chief of Police to go outside his territory. This information comes from Beamsville where it is learned that Chief Jubke is greatly in demand throughout the adjacent townships in settling petty quarrels or family squabbles. There is hardly a day or night in the week that the chief doesn't get some of these frantic appeals. If there is a convenient way of getting to these places the officer is always willing to accommodate and assist in keeping peace within the confines of the fruit belt. However, the chief is a town paid official and has no car at his disposal unless he pays for the hire of one out of his salary. Therefore, if the presence of this officer is a vital and urgent necessity outside, the next best thing to do is to send some mode of conveyance for him, otherwise there is a possibility he will remain in town.

Misleading Signs Have Been Changed

The recent instructions issued from the department of the attorney-general to crown attorneys to prosecute owners of roadhouses and wayside lunch rooms who place misleading signs on their premises, such as "Half-chicken, 45 cents," and then make extra charge for all the trimmings, has evidently been productive in curtailing some of this fic-tious advertising between Hamilton and Niagara Falls where conditions on No. 8 highway in this respect were reported by travels to the department as being bad. Several very prominent "chicken dinner" signs on roadside stands have disappeared during the past week disappeared prominent new signs reading, "Full course meals, 45 cents," have been substituted.

SCHOOL INCORPORATED

Ontario letters of incorporation have been granted under the name of Grimsby Preparatory School to carry on a school or college or seminary of learning maintained for educational purposes. First directors named are: Osborn Shore Hollinshead, Frederick Willard Bartrem, Bert
Smith, Charles Cecil and Ethel May Melville, all of Toronto. The corporation is without share capital. The head office is to be in North Grimsby.

Since the room rates at St. Joseph's hospital were considerably lowered some months ago there will be no further reduction in them consequent to the new Hamilton General hospital rates which were agreed upon last week by the board of governors of that institution.

"Some time ago we lowered all our rates," said the mother superior. "We now have no private room charge of more than $5 a day. The reason for our semi-private and ward

similarly lowered. The charge of $5 a day for the private rooms included the use of the telephone as well."

For many months the reports of the superintendent of the General hospital, Dr. Walter Langill, have shown a steady decrease in the number of private patients and a steady increase in the number of ward patients. All this time there were many private and semi-private rooms that might just as well have been used, in view of their overhead costs, the board pointed out.

Polish Balloonists Safe After Long Forest Trek

Craft Lands in Tree — Dozen Oranges Only Food as Two Hike 90 Miles in Quebec

Two Polish balloonists walked safely into civilization in Quebec Saturday night, entrants in the James Gordon Bennett balloon race which began September 2 in Chicago.

Captain Franciszek Tynek and Lieutenant Zdzislaw Burzynski arrived at the village of Riviere a Pierre, 60 miles northwest of Quebec city, after tramping 90 miles through forests, hills and rivers during the five days they were missing. They had landed in the wilderness and with only the 12 oranges which they had carried from Chicago two days previously, started for civilization.

Canadian Ships Aid

Governors of the annual balloon classic said that the Polish race so far held the lead in the year's race for distance, their point of landing lying roughly 820 miles from Chicago. Commander T. G. W. Settle, piloting the United States Navy entry, came down at Branford, Conn., 750 miles from Chicago, and was considered the winner until the Poles reported.

Their balloon landed in the top of a lofty tree 100 miles from Riviere a Pierre. The two men, with nothing to eat but a dozen oranges, then started a hike back to civilization which lasted until Sunday, when they struck the railroad tracks which led them to the village of Riviere a Pierre.

"Our balloon," said Lieut. Burzynski, "landed in the tree at 10:45 a.m. Monday, Chicago time, due to lack of air. We had covered about 1,050 miles which we think is a new record. We climbed out of the basket, taking the dozen oranges with us.

"For five solid days we walked through dense forests, not sighting a single soul until we struck the railroad tracks at noon yesterday. Then we found out that we were near the Village of Lemieux, where we were greeted warmly. We were given substantial meals—our first in five days.

"The balloon is not damaged and I think they will send a plane to salvage it because it is in the midst of a dense forest.

"We were aloft 39½ hours. I think that minerals caused our compass to vary, and for that reason I can't say exactly how far we were from this village.

"We suffered no hardships other than acute hunger. On the third day after we landed we saw a lake and a canoe with fishing tackle, but since there was no road leading to the lake, we could not get to it.

"We rationed ourselves to an orange a day each, and fortunately did not suffer from thirst as there was plenty of water along the way. At night we built fires and one of us slept for an hour at a time while the other stood guard. There was plenty of game around but we were helpless since we had no weapons of any kind.

"When we finally reached this village we were amazed to learn that the world considered us hopelessly lost and that we apparently had drifted out over the Atlantic.

September Heat Breaks Record

Three Season's Marks at London Shattered by 95.7 Reading

London, Ont.—Smashing all records for the past three years—and perhaps for longer than that—the mercury mounted Friday afternoon to 95.7 degrees.

That line has not been officially touched since the official observatory was moved to the airport. The records for half a century before that have been moved to Toronto.

The season's previous high mark was 95.5, recorded on July 31. No rain has been registered at the observatory since August 14, and for a month before that the farmers had complained of drought.

The parching heat was partly responsible for four grass fires to which the fire department was called. The weatherman said there have been two days above 90 this month, one in August, five in July and seven in June.

Toronto Shares Heat — Toronto and the surrounding district shared with Western Ontario the unusual September heat wave. While the official thermometer registered only 90 degrees as compared with almost 96 at London, Ontario, downtown workers were decidedly uncomfortable during the afternoon. The lowest temperature in Toronto was 62 degrees.

Drivers of Motor Boats Charged in Boat Tragedy — Cobourg.—Charges of criminal negligence have been laid against the drivers of two motor boats which collided at Presque Isle last month, resulting in the drowning of Dorothy Lewis, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis of Cobourg Avenue, Toronto.

The two men, Bert Meecham, of Monarch Park Avenue, Toronto, and Harry Sheehan, a Brighton boat-builder, will appear in court Tuesday for preliminary hearing.

The jury at the inquest held August 29, found both drivers had been careless. Meecham was in charge of the boat bearing Dorothy Lewis and 12 others, while Sheehan was driving a boat owned by Dr. Frank Dunnell of Brighton.

Ontario Revises Truck Regulation — Provision for Bonding of Fruit Carriers Temporarily Suspended — Toronto.—Until further notice fruit truckers, dealers and others operating under the new Ontario Fruit Act will be able to operate by merely taking out the $5 license. Hon. Thomas L. Kenealy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, announced here, inability of many fruit truckers to meet the demands of bonding companies has thrown enforcement of the Act into such a confused state that the section was forced, the Minister said.

The new Act has implemented regulations calling for the bonding of every fruit trucker to the extent of $1,000. Cause of the trouble is that bonding companies wanted the security in cash and would not consider real estate or anything of that nature, it is said.

Canada Will Send Fruit Expert to U.K. — Ottawa.—A new trade commissioner is to be appointed to represent Canada in Britain. It is announced here. His special duties will be to develop trade in Canadian fruit in the United Kingdom and he will receive an initial salary of $4,350 and full living allowance. The Department of Trade and Commerce expects to secure an expert in Canadian fruit growing for the position. An expert in grain chemistry for the laboratory in Winnipeg is also to be selected.

A new disease of the loganberry caused by a fungus hitherto unknown to the North American Continent is reported from British Columbia. The disease prevents pollination of a number of the drupelets and deforms the fruit.

Alleged Bandit Felled in Fight

Hamilton Victim Drags Stunned Prisoner to Police

Hamilton, Sept. 10.—Fighting back after a hold-up man had twice clicked the trigger of a .32 calibre revolver while it was pointed against his ribs, Harry Rymal, 279 Locke St. south, frustrated a robbery and handed over to Provincial Police the alleged bandit after he had beaten him unconscious.

The man, who is alleged to have attempted to rob Rymal while his car was parked on the York Road near the Clappison cut, at 12:50 o'clock a.m., is in the General Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries. He is under police guard.

Two men took part in the attempted robbery, according to Sergeant Oliver of the Provincial Police, who arrested a man who resided with the first prisoner. The second man faces a charge of vagrancy.

The second man, it is said, took no part in the fight, but fled when Rymal attacked the bandit.

The car owner fought with the would-be robber on the roadside and again in a field when he attempted to escape. Rymal struck the man on the head with the butt end of the weapon, which he had wrested from his grasp, and he fell unconscious at his feet.

When the gunman made two attempts in quick succession to fire, Rymal realized that to fight was his only chance, and a fierce struggle ensued. He had been standing with his hands in the air while the robber searched his clothing. Throwing himself on the thug, he knocked him off his feet and then he grappled with him on the roadway.

Leaping from Boat to Save Six Quebec Man Drowns

Contrecoeur, Que., Sept. 10.—When he failed in his heroic effort to save his six companions from drowning in the St. Lawrence ship channel here, Norman Phillips, 37, and three companions, lost their lives while three other men managed to cling to a rowboat overturned by the swell of a passing steamer. All were from Montreal.

According to the story as told by the survivors, the seven men were vacationing at a camp here and decided Saturday night to cross the river to Lanoré.

While returning in a single rowboat at about 9 o'clock, they reached the middle of the channel just as the swell of a passing steamer was about to overtake them. Knowing the craft to be heavily loaded and realizing the strength of the swell, Phillips volunteered to lighten the boat and he plunged into the swift current.

The other victims were unable to cling to the boat when it capsized and were carried away by the current.

Threshing Late In Saskatchewan

Rains Soak Fields Again — Hopes Concentrate on 1934 Crops

Regina, Sept. 10.—Saskatchewan farmers look hopefully forward to good crops next year and ruefully survey untreshed wheat in the stacks as they gaze out over muddy farm lands, soaked in heavy week-end rains.

Threshing will be held up and wheat grade will drop, but signs for an abundant harvest next year, after five years of drought, are bright.

Heavy rains, which poured down for two hours, were reported today from all points all over the south and central areas of the province. The rain extended from points as far south of Estevan to points north of Saskatoon.

Edmonton Bread Prices Increased

Edmonton.—Retail bread prices here have advanced from one-half to two cents per loaf following a general mark-up by all city bakeries. The reason for the price rise was given by the Master Bakers' Association as a return to profitable selling levels after a recent "bread war" which the price down.

Argentine Now Signs World Wheat Accord

London.—Thom Le Breton, Argentine representative here, last week signed an international agreement designed to raise wheat prices and brought to 22 the number of signatories. Delegates from the other three major wheat exporting countries, Canada, the United States and Australia, were present at the brief ceremony at which Le Breton added his name to the accord.

Cyclists to Use Sidewalks

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Years ago it was against the law to ride a bicycle on the sidewalks of this city. And more than one daring person drew a stern rebuke from the bewhiskered policeman for peddling down the sidewalk. Now the chief of police, Mr. Billingsley, invites all bicycle riders to use the sidewalks in the residential sections for their cycling to avoid collision with automobiles in riding down the streets.

Dancer is Heroine Of Auto Accident

Remains With Fatally Injured Companion All Night and Administers First Aid

Santa Fe, N.M.—Seriously injured in an automobile accident that cost the life of William Hunter, 25, of Buffalo, N.Y., her companion, Jane McLean, Santa Fe dancer, made a gruelling climb from the bottom of a 1,000-foot canyon and obtained aid from a passing motorist.

The car in which Hunter and the girl were riding, lunged from the road at the head of Yaos Canon, about 15 miles south of Taos, and hurtled down the slope when Hunter became blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile.

Mrs. McLean was thrown clear of the car when it had rolled about half way down. Hunter was trapped in the machine and went the full distance. The girl tried to lift him, but he was pinned under the car. She bathed his face and bandaged him, using part of her clothing, and put a cushion under his head, not discovering until later that he was dead. She remained with him all night, though she was badly cut and bruised and losing much blood. She climbed to the road in the morning and hailed the first car passing.

Outlook Reported Good For Potatoes

Small Crop in United States Stirrs Hope in Maritime Provinces

Halifax.—With the United States department of agriculture forecasting one of the lowest potato crops in 30 years, farmers of the Maritime Provinces are anticipating higher prices and a ready market for their offerings this year. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island report indications of an average crop, depending of course on regular rains.

An official of the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture said the low yield in the United States undoubtedly would open up a healthy market for Maritime potatoes. It would not be the early market, he said, but the late market with prices high enough to that duty against Canadian potatoes would not prevent sales at good profits.

The prospects in the United States were reviewed as follows in a bulletin issued by the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture:

"The August 1st estimate of potato production for the United States is 292,778,000 bushels as compared with a crop of 357,079,000 bushels in the three years since 1900 has the August condition been at such a low point, namely 1901, 1911 and 1921. The potato acreage in Maine this year has been reduced from 195,000 acres to 125,000 or 15 to 20 per cent. The heat and dry weather in many parts of the Midwest has very materially further cut the yield as compared even with July. Prospects for good returns for potato growers after bad years are bright. The States are going to be cleaned up early this year so that Maine potatoes will start to move as soon as ready while last year they had to compete with potatoes from the Eastern Shore."

Quarrel Over Dance Leads to Shooting

Tiverton Man Shoots Wife at Summer Home and Takes His Own Life

Tiverton, Ont., Sept. 10.—A murder and suicide that arose out of a quarrel over a dance has left pretty little Shirley McGillivray, 4, without parents. Her father killed his wife with a single revolver shot, then took his own life with the same weapon.

Meeting her husband for the first time in several months in the dancing pavilion at Inverhuron Beach, near here, Mrs. McGillivray, 25, refused his invitation to dance. She was shot an hour later on the verandah of her father's summer home, only 100 yards away from the dance hall, and died before she could be taken to a doctor.

McGillivray, the police said, became infuriated at his estranged wife's refusal to dance with him. They said he walked from the pavilion to his mother-in-law's home, waited for Mrs. McGillivray's return on the verandah, and killed her after a brief quarrel. The couple, married five years ago, had not lived together for several months.

Mrs. McGillivray went to the dance with a friend, Mrs. Sara Shepherd of Toronto. Friends said she danced with a number of men during the evening, while McGillivray danced two or three times before asking his wife to dance. He left the pavilion immediately on her refusal.

An all-night search was made for McGillivray after his wife slumped to the verandah steps with a bullet in her heart. The police believed the son of one of Bruce County's best-known families had escaped in a car. But at daybreak his body was found a short distance from his mother-in-law's home. He apparently fired a bullet into his head a few minutes after the murder.

Provides Chauffeur For Alleged Bandits

North Bay, Sept. 10.—A village policeman provided two women with a chauffeur for an allegedly stolen automobile.

The women, subsequently arrested, have been sent to Huntsville, 80 miles south of here, to face a charge of stealing the car.

The police said the women, one married and one single, from Niagara Falls, N.Y., stopped a Huntsville youth on the street there, pressed an imitation pistol against him, and forced him to act as their chauffeur from Huntsville to Sandridge, 35 miles north. They needed a driver, it is said, because their male escorts had been detained by the Huntsville police on a liquor charge.

When the women proceeded on to Callander, it is reported, Constable Payce of that village, unaware that they were "wanted," provided them with another chauffeur to drive them to North Bay, where they were arrested by Constable Belanger.

Twenty Thousand Spectators Witness Death Jump

St. Paul.—William Ash, 34, parachute jumper, was killed when he attempted a 6,000-foot jump at the Minnesota State Fair on Friday.

Twenty thousand persons looked on as Ash jumped from an airplane with a sack of flour under his arm. He opened the sack and a white trail followed as he crashed to the ground. Ash had two parachutes, which witnesses said did not open.

Whether Ash failed to pull the rip cord on his parachute or whether the apparatus tangled could not be determined.

At Least Eight Drown South Dakota Lowlands

Chamberlain, S.D., Sept. 10.—A cloudburst sent a four-foot high wall of water rolling over the lowlands near Crow Creek Indian Reservation and drowned at least eight persons. It was feared that others might have lost their lives when the wall of water swept down suddenly and unexpectedly over the low country.

White men on horses, Indians on foot and in rowboats, and aviators in airplanes searched the fringes of the newly formed lake today and tonight.

Wild Ducks Dying By the Hundreds

Regina.—It looks like a bad year for wild ducks in this Prairie province. They are dying by the hundreds in Lake Johnson, in the southwest part of Saskatchewan.

Toxic poisoning is given as the cause of many deaths among the duck population on the lake. This is caused by low water and impurities seeping up from the bottom. Hundreds of wild ducks are to be seen floating on the surface.

The Government will be asked for an appropriation sufficient to move the invalids to fresh water. Game officials state there are more ducks on Lake Johnson this season than there have been for many years.

In Northeast Saskatchewan, ducks are waxing fat on bountiful crops of grain. They are so plentiful that farmers are appealing to the Government for aid. They want the right to shoot some and frighten thousands of others out of the country. Such permits are actually being given in cases where farmers are able to give necessary affidavits.

Fred Perry Wins U.S. Tennis Title

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 10.—With a sudden, dynamic surge that swept everything before him and broke up an otherwise dramatically close battle for points, dark-haired, 24-year-old Frederick J. Perry of England whipped the great Jack Crawford of Australia in his sets today for the tennis championship of the United States.

Montreux in Hotel Bathing Pool

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Lawrence A. Gillis, 22, Canadian National Railway's employee, from Montreal, was drowned here yesterday in the swimming pool of a hotel. An inquest will be opened tomorrow. It was understood that Gillis went to Montreal from his home in Iowa, N.S.

Voice of the Press

Steady Gains

Baham's reports on conditions in Canada this month... a business improvement is being steadily maintained over this Dominion. The current bulletin says that while general business in the United States is showing a tendency to flatten off into a temporary sideways movement, there is no interruption in the upward sweep of major industries throughout the Dominion.—Brandon Sun.

Population Growth

There are 73,000,000 more people in the world to-day than there were four years ago, according to Sir Charles Close, president of the International Population Union, who apparently keeps close tab on births and deaths.

Getting Business

Under the new trade treaties Canada's exports to France have increased by 73 per cent. in the past year, and those to South Africa are up 65 per cent. That's talking business.—Border Cities Star.

Sun Tan Plan

The girl who used to blacken her leg to hide a hole in her stocking now tans both legs and wears no stockings at all.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

No Time to Laugh

A woman teacher at Vancouver recently offered to resign her post if it were granted to a male teacher without a job, in which case she would marry her successor. The School Board "laughed her proposal out of court." One of the great causes of the present wave of unemployment, according to many authorities, is the fact that millions of women have refused to display the spirit that this Vancouver teacher is so eager to do. Not only is she willing to make room for a workless man, but she is willing to do it knowing that it means the sacrifice of financial independence on her part. Her belief that she will be more than compensated for that sacrifice is beside the point.—Edmonton Journal.

Big Business and President Roosevelt

Big business supported the dictators in Italy and Germany and continues to support them. There was a time when neither Mussolini nor Hitler could have gone forward without this backing. Perhaps both are independent of it to-day. Nevertheless, it remains their stout ally. In the United States big business has not been a cordial to Roosevelt. He has had to employ pressure, and even yet it remains to be seen whether the great industries will heartily co-operate with him. But it is plain enough that if the great financial and industrial interests are secretly in favour of some sort of dictatorship, Roosevelt is not their idea of a dictator.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Destruction of Forests

The shortsightedness of many of our pioneers has turned very considerable areas of Canada into voracious deserts. Due to the thoughtless cutting of woodlands that were once famed successfully are now little more than "blow-sand country." But what our pioneers did under the urge of necessity, we continue to do to-day without that urge. We are denuding our woodlands everywhere for present profit without thought for the future.—Winnipeg Tribune.

Think Things Through

Thinking things through to the bitter end is a difficult task for most men and women, but how much sadder and logical the result when it is done. It is a habit that should be cultivated by all and especially by those who are or would be leaders.—Edmonton Journal.

Drainage and Drought

Governments may be permitted to grant a bonus for each acre of land reclaimed from swampy areas, and to pay a farmer for draining his own land. But the time may come when these water reservoirs will be wished for because they are moisture preservers.—Sherbrooke Record.

Hotter-Skinner

The New York Sun has a paragraph: The Dutch, destroying bulbs, and the Southern farmers plowing cotton under, might use better to advantage Dutch bulbs might be as much of a novelty in the south as cotton plants would be in the Netherlands.

Nothing could indicate the better skelter condition of the world more than the fact that they destroyed large quantities of wheat in Kansas, they have burnt thousands of tons of coffee in Brazil and for scores of primary products like sugar, rubber, etc., the market price has been below the actual cost of production. Right at home here last year, hundreds of tons of good grapes were left on the vines.

The reference is, of course, to last year and a comparison with this year.

THE UNITED STATES Should Know Better

The world, according to science, is 3,000,000 years old. The man in the street thinks that at this age it ought to know better than to act as it does.—New York Sun.

Pioneer Houses Subject of Article

Whites of Eggs Used in Original Stucco Dwellings

In an interesting article in "Bride and Groom," Professor Arthur writes on his quest of the pioneer period in Ontario. A few paragraphs are given below:

The first houses were of log and a good many still remain. They are difficult to discover, owing to their coat of stucco, unless in ruins, when the structure is revealed. The walls were constructed of blocks of mud, bonded with pea straw and dried in the Egyptian fashion in the sun. So long as the roof is kept water-tight these houses appear to last indefinitely, and their insulating qualities make them ideal dwellings in winter and summer. The original stucco, as used here in the first century, contained the whites of eggs, hundreds of which went into the covering of a wall. Sir Christopher Wren used eggs in the mortar of St. Paul's; in fact, they were used in good work in Ontario within living memory. Shanty Bay church on Lake Simcoe, is the most ambitious and one of the best preserved mud buildings in Ontario.

Anyone in the neighborhood of Toronto interested in mud building should see a fine little house near Halton, in Peel County. The stucco has peeled sufficiently to show the sun dried bricks beneath; these were shaped and carefully laid in position. In the Peel house the interior trim is as finely detailed as in any expensive modern Georgian house, and has chairrails and cupboards that would satisfy the most fastidious taste.

Perhaps the finest colonial house left in Ontario, the writer says, is the Barnum house near Grafton. The "Planter's" house, so common in the southern states, is found all over Ontario. It consists of a high central portion with a columnar porch two stories high, and low wings. Good examples are the Chrysler farm near Cornwall, the Peck house at Prescott, and the Sydenham house in Kingston.

At Port Hope a family or school of bricklayers made this little Ontario town as interesting for its brick work as Kingston is for its stone work. The cornice and trim, city-like appearance of a typical dwelling is worth noting, for about the year 1800 Port Hope thought it saw a great future for itself, and started to build itself like a smaller London, with basement kitchens, flat roofs and cast-iron fences.

New Rules Regulate Foreign Ship Lines

London.—A dispatch from Berlin says: The Ministry of Economic Affairs has issued new instructions for the treatment of foreign shipping companies represented in Germany. The order compelling German travellers, even foreign travellers, who wish to pay marks to apply to the foreign exchange control offices for authorization before booking passages "above the low exemption list" for export money by foreign vessels, is withdrawn.

The new regulations are regarded as satisfactory by the representatives of foreign shipping lines and leave them as much freedom as possible to conduct business in Germany while the foreign exchange control continues in force. The exchange control official is instructed to grant foreign companies a general authorization to book passages in marks without limit. They are thus able to deal freely with intending passengers, which was their main demand; anything short of its fulfilment would have seriously crippled their activities in Germany. Germans or foreigners may now book freely on foreign vessels. Bookings must be confined to costs incurred on the ship, and the amount of passages unused or fully unused may be refunded in marks within Germany.

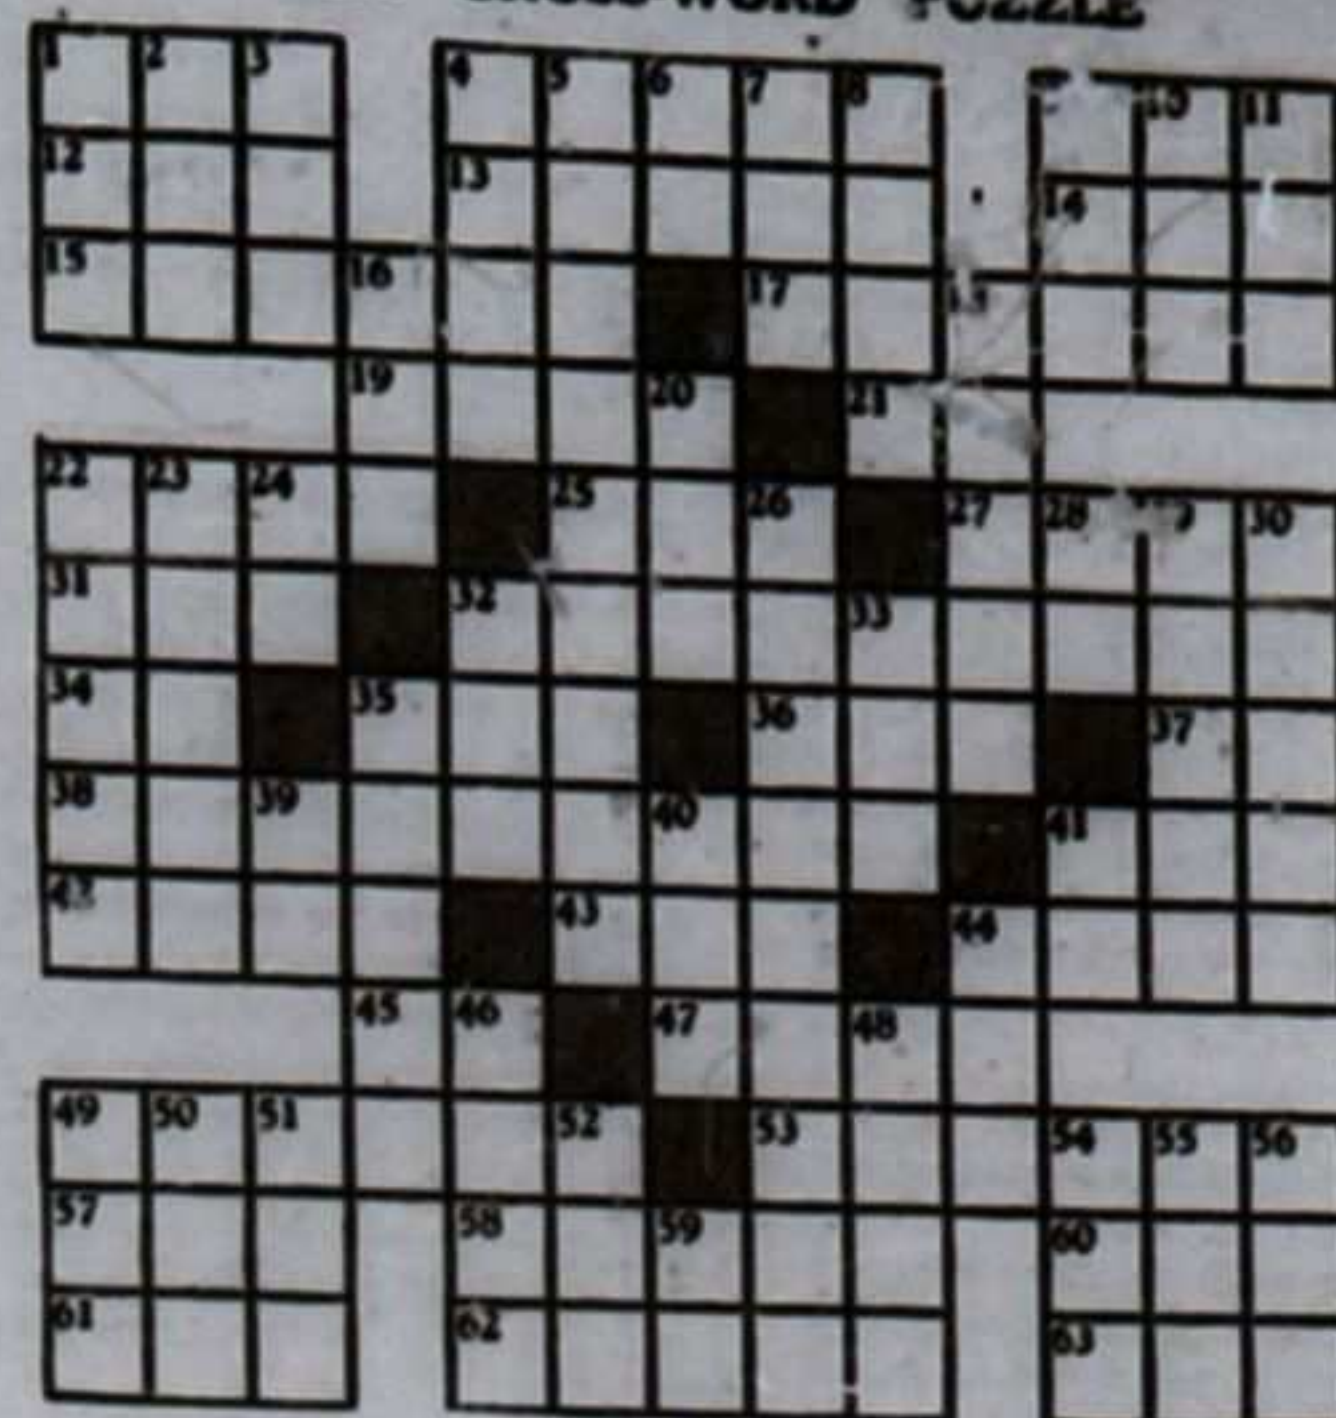

The foreign exchange control will in future be applied to the total receipts of each foreign company as was the case before the order giving rise to controversy and not to the cost of individual passage.

The Optimist's Creed

Promise yourself:
To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind. To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet;
To make all your friends feel that there is something in them;
To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true;
To think only of the best, to work for the best, and expect only the best;
To be as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own;
To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future;
To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile;
To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others;
To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

Baked apples filled with nuts, cinnamon and sugar are delicious and afford a variety in serving this popular fruit.

This Week's Science Notes

Character of Cancer—Experiments Lead Scientists to New Theory—Other Notes

First reports on the results of hundreds of experiments in the course of nine months at the Cancer Research Laboratory, Graduate School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania, are printed in the German scientific publication, Zeitschrift für Physiologische Chemie. The work, conducted by Dr. Ernst Waldschmidt-Leitz, one of the world's leading authorities on enzymes, of Prague, Czechoslovakia, and four of his assistants, is stated to have opened up new fields in the study of the chemistry of cancer, so promising as to lead the investigators to believe that the nature of the cancer problem is largely enzymal in character.

Enzymes are regarded as catalysts of biological origin which are formed in all living cells. Catalysts are minute quantities of certain inorganic substances by means of which the rate of chemical reactions are speeded up tremendously. An example of an enzyme is the ferment in the common yeast cell, known as zymase, which brings about the fermentation of sugar. Another enzyme, known as ptyalin, is formed in the cells of the salivary gland, from which it is discharged in the mouth where it acts on the starch of the food.

It is now realized that most of the changes going on in the living cells are due to chemical agents similar to the ferment in yeast. In many cases the enzymes act inside the cell, while in other instances they carry on their chemical changes outside the cell which forms them, after being discharged. Their chemical structure is as yet unknown.

is, one particular enzyme will act only on a single substance, or a group of closely related substances. In some cases this specificity is so extreme that it has been suggested that there is a "lock and key" relationship between the enzyme and the molecule, or the substrate, on which it acts. Each particular enzyme seems to fit only a particular molecule, just as a particular key fits its own lock and so on.

Enzymes are active in extremely minute quantities. For example, the enzyme known as the invertase can hydrolyze 1,000,000 times its weight of cane sugar without appreciable loss of activity. Most of the reactions in which enzymes take part involve the presence of water, as in the case of the enzymes in the alimentary canal, which break down the food-stuffs by hydrolysis. Other types of enzymes, known as oxidases, are the active agents in processes of oxidation. The color changes that occur when a sliced apple or potato is exposed to air are due to this type.

Applying the general knowledge of enzymes gained within the past few years, it is now found, according to this group of scientists, that these little ferments play an important role in the development of cancer. So far the type of enzymes known as proteolytic, namely the protein-digesting enzymes, have been studied. The researchers show, according to the report, that there is a definite correlation between the presence or absence of certain types of cancer development and the various stages of the

GAS POISON ANTIDOTE.
Discovery of a cyanide antidote to carbon monoxide and believed, than any more effective, it is reacting the effect means of cony poisons, is reflects of these deny John H. Draize ported in Science Experiment Station, University of Wyoming. The tion, Universit, of a solution of sodium tetrathionate, and was first applied to cyanide poisoning by B. Foresti, an Italian scientist.

A dose of three to four milligrams of a hydrocyanic acid solution per kilogram of body weight is fatal to a rabbit when administered through the mouth. But the intravenous injection of two to three milliliters of a 2 per cent. solution of the new antidote per kilogram of body weight, Mr. Draize reports, is "effective in saving rabbits having received orally three times the minimal lethal dose of hydrocyanic acid."

The results obtained suggested a trial of the effectiveness of the salt in other types of poisoning, particularly that due to carbon monoxide. Rabbits were gassed to a point "from which recovery was impossible without treatment." It was found that the sodium tetrathionate was more effective than methylene blue in reviving the animals poisoned with carbon monoxide.

Carbon monoxide will always be more or less of a source of poisoning so long as the gasoline engine, illuminating gas and coal-burning appliances are used by man, Mr. Draize observes. He expresses the hope that the effectiveness of sodium tetrathionate "may be given further study and trial by those who are called upon to treat human cases of carbon monoxide poisoning."

Engine Again Fails To Beat Horse in Race

Chicago.—The old gray mare is still what she used to be, still what she used to be. . . is the new version inspired by a repetition of the historic race of Aug. 25, 1900, between the "Tom Thumb" and first locomotive built in America and a horse-drawn coach. The horse won originally, and the horse won again, but not the promoters of the race, for reasons best known to themselves. It was on tracks adjoining the Century of Progress exposition that the historic race was staged again. Everything was the same except the scene and the mare. The same horse-drawn coach, surprisingly enough the same mishap which occurred to the little engine in the original race, preventing it from winning, occurred again. But then, history has a way of repeating itself, especially when human hand exerts a sufficient amount of pressure.

The "Tom Thumb," Peter Cooper's pioneer steam engine, is used daily in the transportation parent, "Wings of a Century," and so is the horse-drawn coach.

"Is Tom cancelled?"
"Very. He even imagines that he looks well in his bathing suit."

Botanical Terms Explained

Aid for persons puzzled by the mysterious sounding botanical names of various plants is offered by The Bulletin of the Arnold Arboretum, Harvard University. Some of the names indicate the habit of the plant, others its origin, the great majority refer to the peculiarities of that particular genus and species. The Bulletin points out.

Some of the terms that occur most frequently and which are useful in that they tell something about the plant are: scandens, climber; repens, creeping; frutescens or frutescens, shrubby; palustris, marsh loving; rock loving; arenarius, of sandy soil.

The character of Old Trinity church, New York, first appeared in vestments on Sunday, October 14th, 1860, when the services were attended by Albert Edward, Prince of Wales.

...SMILES...
"The real marriage," we read from Dorothy Dix, "is when a man finds a beautiful girl and a good housewife." Sounds more like bigamy.

Blotout—"I wonder why rich folks so often marry rich folks?"
Obfuscus—"Because they have so much interest in commot."

Try a Cyclone Cellar
Husband (while house-hunting)—
"Let's try a bungalow, my dear—then you won't always be hearing burglars moving about down stairs."

Smoothing Her Plumage
Old Aunt (despondently)—"Well, I shall not be a nuisance to you much longer."
Nephew (reassuringly)—"Don't talk like that, aunt; you know you will."

Kink Lady—"And how would you like a nice chop?"
Weary Tramp—"That all depends, lady—is it lamb, pork, or wood?"

Too Expensive
And then there was the Scottish father of twins, who only had one of them photographed.

Woman—"People sometimes tell me I talk too much, but I always believe in saying what I think."
Husband—"Of course, darling—but—where do you get all the rest from?"

The reason so many of us do not want to learn is because a lot of the facts we'd pick up in the process would be very unpleasant.

Wife (to husband, upon leaving a good eating place)—"I hope you gave the waiter a big enough tip."
Husband—"I did, but it wasn't."

Suitor—"Well, since you don't want to marry me, perhaps you will return the ring I gave you."
Sweet Young Thing (snapping)—"If you must know, your jeweller has already called for it."

Doctor—"Give up smoking, captain, and you will prolong your life by 20 years."
Captain—"But isn't it too late now?"
Doctor—"It's never too late."

Captain—"Then I'll start in ten years' time."

Trouble really never starts in a family until the time arrives when father and son can wear each other's clothes.

"You have admitted Smith to your club? But he is such a bore."
"Yes—he wanted somebody to grumble about."

Grocer—"Do you want white or brown eggs, ma'am?"
Pretty Bride—"The kind I want are white with a yellow polka dot in the middle."

Country Doctor (calling to see female patient)—"I suppose you consider me an old hump?" (laughing, as he felt the woman's pulse and trying to put over his very best bedside manner).
The Patient (gasping incredulously)—
"Well, I never. I had no idea you could ascertain a woman's thoughts by just feeling her pulse."

Blessed is the husband who is an unhandy fellow. He reads his newspaper while his neighbors are mending carpet sweepers.

Tactful Tot
Minister (calling)—"And what does your mother do for you when you've been a good girl?"
Margery—"She lets me stay home from church."

He'd Never Get Rich
Victim (sadly)—"I get that watch from a former employer after I'd been with him ten years."
Footpad—"Lumme, Guv'nor, you was slow, wasn't you?"

Homeopathic Recipe
Diner—"What on earth is this broth made from, waiter? Surely it isn't chicken broth!"
Waiter—"Well, sir, it's chicken broth in its infancy. It's made out of the water the eggs were boiled in."

Detective Stories Declared Sedative

Tired Business Men Relax Tensed Nerves Reading Thriller

New York.—The psychological reason why great men and others like detective stories is out—the tales are soothing.

They cut the pulse rate, lower blood pressure, and steady motor nerves. Furthermore, women react to them like the men.

These experiments are published by Ray Mars Simpson, psychologist at the Institute for Juvenile Research, Chicago. His test readers were 40 university students, 24 men and 16 women. Their ages were 18 to 41.

While wearing attachments to record their physical status, they read detective stories, history, psychology and geography, in 15-minute periods, for six successive days. The first, third and fifth days were devoted to detective stories.

The instruments showed that the rate of breathing was consistently faster while reading detective stories, but the longer they read the slower it became.

"Reading detective stories," Dr. Simpson states, "tends to reduce the pulse rate more than reading academic material. The blood pressure falls to practically the same final level at the end of 15-minute periods devoted to either detective stories of geography. Motor steadiness is improved more by reading detective stories than by reading history."

"In short, the great majority of detective stories are soothing rather than exciting. They act as a sedative for tired business men."

The Better Day

Harsh thoughts, blind anger, and fierce hands,
That kept this restless world at strife,
Mean passions that like choking sands,
Perplex the stream of life.

Pride and hot envy and cold greed,
The cankers of the loftier will,
What if ye triumph, and yet bleed?
Ah, can ye not be still?

Oh, shall there be no space, no time,
No century of weal in store,
No freedom in a nobler clime,
Where men shall strive no more?

Where every motion of the heart
Shall serve the spirit's master-call,
Where self shall be the unseen part,
And human kindness all?

Or shall we but by fits and glances
Sink satisfied and cease to rave,
And love but in the rest of dreams,
And peace but in the grave?

—From Lyrics of Eternity by Archibald Lampman.

The summer fallow is by no means a modern institution but has come down through the ages. The practice apparently was not always for the purpose of conserving moisture as the ancients' injunction "Break up your fallow land and sow not among thorns" suggests the use of the fallow as a means of weed eradication.

VISITS ST. CATHARINES

"Canada needs an aroused conscience. Canadians need to know that the greatest thing they can do is to bring about improved conditions for those within and without prison walls," Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., declared as a leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation at a meeting of that movement held in Montebello park St. Catharines. The meeting, at which Dr. Hilda Warden presided and D. M. LeBourdais, general secretary of the C. C. F. clubs in Ontario also spoke, was attended by some 2,500.

Referring to a recent trip in Western Canada Mr. LeBourdais found the C.C.F. was attracting tremendous attention. In Ontario there were already 10,000 members in the Tory city of Toronto and 72 clubs scattered throughout the province. Turning to economic conditions he traced the growth of the breadline from 300,000 under the King regime to 1,300,000 under Bennett.

"They were trying to make a political philosophy work that will not work. God Almighty could not make it work."

The Week's News of The Surrounding District

STONEY CREEK

Keen interest is being evinced by many of the ratepayers in the action taken by a majority of the county councillors in refusing to enter into an agreement with the Hamilton board of education whereby county pupils would be able to attend the colleges and technical school in Hamilton. It would seem that there is little likelihood of the county representatives in the high school district comprising the township of Saltfleet and village of Stoney Creek changing their views on this subject as this high school district has been penalized over a number of years because of the provision of the High School act.

Not only has this high school district supplied and paid for the tuition of its own resident high school pupils at the high school here, but it has been forced to contribute in an indirect way towards the tuition of county pupils from other municipalities in the county, a sum of money equivalent to three-quarters of a mill of the assessment.

The position the councillors here take is that each municipality should bear the cost of tuition of its own high school pupils, which would appear to be entirely logical.

Rev. Henry Cotton, pastor of the United church here, has been looking up the early records of the church and finds that service was first begun here 121 years ago. Plans are well under way for the celebration of this anniversary during the month of October.

Believe it or not, some farmers on the mountain have demonstrated this year that it is possible for the lesser to actually be the greater.

Hamilton Lee threshed oats this year that yielded 45 bushels to the acre, weighing 40 pounds to the bushel, where as his crop of 50 bushels last year weighing scarcely 34 pounds to the bushel, the standard weight for oats, gave a lesser yield.

Great quantities of tomatoes are being rushed to the canning factories these days, most of the staffs having to work well into the night to keep up with the rush.

The reports of Sheep Yaluvator W. T. Pearson to Saltfleet township council tell a tale of wanton destruction among the flocks in the township unequalled in its history.

On May 24 it is said: "Last night, under cover of darkness, dogs made a raid on the flock of Percy Soley, killing 20 ewes and 6 lambs, leaving 20 lambs motherless, nearly all of which are suffering from injuries inflicted by the dogs. Many of them will likely die. No trace of the dogs could be found."

This is but one of 13 similar reports made by Mr. Pearson to the council, telling how 66 sheep have been killed and twice as many more injured. It has cost the township nearly $600 to settle the claims so far, not one cent of which it can collect from those who own or harbor the dogs unless it can be proved that they were the actual killers.

As might be supposed, the farmers are up in arms in more ways than one, for they are not taking all this lying down on the job and are very reluctant to talk about what is happening among the dogs. In an interview with one in a position to know whereof he spoke, but for obvious reasons wished his name withheld, the interviewer was able to glean from him the story of how one police dog came to an inglorious end recently. "He was a wary customer, sly as a fox and hard to catch," the informant stated, "and we dare not shoot, else explanations might have been necessary, for we had yet to establish his guilt, so we baited him for a few nights and then a lasso cleverly thrown found its mark, the branch of a nearby tree served as a scaffold and in quick order he had gone the way of other night prowlers were shot in their tracks and one got away, carrying a 22 slug as a gentle reminder of what is in store for him if he comes back." And this is only part of the warfare being waged against the dogs.

The real sheep killer is the typical Jekyll and Hyde in dog form, as innocent looking and harmless as a lamb in the daytime. Some strange impulse seems to take possession of him at night and when accompanied by a mate or two and the blood lust is on him, he becomes as savage as a wolf. "September and October are usually the worst months of the year for sheep-killing," declared Mr. Pearson, although now that the farmers are on guard, I do not expect there will be many more killed."

The township council at its meeting recently passed a resolution against the establishment of community gardens or small farms in the municipality as outlined in a communication received from the community garden plot committee in the city.

Hearing that an experiment of this kind was too doubtful a proposition and that many of these placed on small acreages would find it an uphill fight, so much so that there was a strong possibility of their becoming a charge on the municipality later on, the councillors unanimously decided to vote against having anything to do with it.

Each year since the high school has been built there has been a decided increase of students enrolled at the opening of the fall term. This year is no exception, 240 so far having registered, some of whom are from Barton and Hinbrook townships. Whether or not the board will be able to accommodate all who wish to attend is a question that will likely be decided at a meeting to be held this week.

VINEMOUNT

The Vinemount Horticultural society will hold a flower show in the community hall on Saturday afternoon and evening, September 16. During the week the lawns of the society's members will be judged and the awards made at the show. The grounds of school sections No. 4, North Grimsby, and Nos. 7, 8, 9, and 10, Saltfleet, will be judged at the same time for the school grounds awards. A. M. Cocks, of Winona, will act as judge for these competitions.

The exhibits for the flower show should be at the hall by 1 p.m. on Saturday, and this competition is open to members of the Horticultural society or not.

All residents of the community, whether the Rev. H. G. L. Baugh, of Stoney Creek preached at the 11 o'clock, Star Home service at St. George's church, Tapscott, on Sunday, September 10. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Higginson, had charge of the evening service at 7.30 o'clock. Special music was rendered at both services.

Miss Mary Jeffries was fortunate in obtaining three first prizes for hand-knitted sweaters at the Canadian National exhibition.

Dick, the amateur gardener, was the speaker at the Home and School club on Monday evening, September 11th, in the schoolhouse.

WINONA

A lot of criticism has been heard in the past about the condition in which the surface of the foot path was on the old H. G. & B. right-of-way at about the track was taken up. Only the Prize lists for the annual fair on ballster was used to make the path, September 22 and 23, can now be seen as it ranges from three-inch used from the secretary, Fred Barre, crushed stone to nothing but clay, the ough.

The County school fair in this diocese only, especially in wet weather, is scheduled to begin this week. During the past summer department with the Clinton and Louth fair on of highway workmen placed signs, ednesday at the Rittenhouse school, For Pelestrians Only, at different (nton and North Grimsby will be places along the path. One man suggested that the money could better have been spent to hire a team and mower to cut the weeds which are nearly as high as the signs in places. Since school opened on Tuesday some very pointed remarks have been heard from parents whose children have either to walk on this path or the highway as on these dewy mornings and after the rain Wednesday afternoon, one who walked on the path would be drenched. Some claim that when the old track was taken up and sold for junk that it was reported that the proceeds would pay for the work and leave enough for some kind of a surface. In any event it would not take much money to fix the worst places or to cut the weeds as relief work.

Miss Betty Martin, of the Bell Telephone staff, is holidaying in Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Tony Golob (nee Edna Roseman), of Kirkland Lake, have a son, born September 7.

Mr. Howard Boyce, who with her little daughter, Constance, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fletcher for the past three weeks, has returned to her home at Hudson Falls, N. Y.

Mrs. Ebby, of Kitchener, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. Witmer.

The farmers here are very grateful for the refreshing rains of Wednesday afternoon. The grapes are ripening very fast, but the crop is considerably light.

Lockie Hunt left for Sault Ste. Marie, to attend the funeral of his uncle.

W. J. Morgan, local bank manager; Mrs. Morgan and daughter Alice, have left to spend their vacation at Toronto. Mr. Macdonald, of Toronto, is relieving in Mr. Morgan's place.

Joel and Mrs. Lindsey, of Elmore, are visiting the latter's sister Mrs. Harry Miller.

Neil Miller has just returned home from Detroit, where he was playing at the wedding of his cousin.

GRIMSBY BEACH

Rev. E. H. Burgess conducted the services in the Tabernacle on Sunday, September 10. At the morning service, Miss Beatrice Dyke, Mus. Bac., contributed two effective solos, one of which, The Heart's Longing, was composed by her father, Rev. J. H. Dyke.

Mrs. Grant favored the evening congregation with a solo. Mrs. Burgess acted as accompanist. The church was tastefully decorated with autumn flowers.

Mrs. H. D. McKellar and Miss Elan McKellar have returned from Whalen Island, Georgian Bay.

Mrs. Brethaur has purchased Pier View cottage from Mrs. McKellar, and Mr. Plato, St. Catharines, has bought T. F. Wright's cottage on the lake front.

The lawn bowlers held a jitney on Saturday afternoon in which a number from the town of Grimsby participated. This week the grounds are closed and are being prepared for next season's games.

BEAMSVILLE

In preparation for the year's athletic activities the students at the high and vocational school organized their associations last Friday afternoon. The officers of the girls' section were elected as follows: President, Barbara Stone; vice-president, Margaret Putman; secretary-treasurer, Bertha Martin. Form representatives: Five, Betty Piper; four, Frances Peterson; three, Nettie Prosser.

The dates for the annual autumn track and field sports will probably be September 29 and 30. The member reciprocated by sending the band across to the Cooper restaurant for refreshments.

J. C. and Mrs. Blackstone, Owen Sound, have been the guests of S. and Mrs. Atkinson.

held at the Grimsby Beach school on Thursday; Gainsboro township at Blomark on Monday, September 18; South Grimsby at Smithville on Tuesday, September 19, and Calstar township at Abingdon, on Wednesday, September 20.

With this season being two weeks earlier than ordinary, the peach crop, with the exception of the real late varieties, will be off this week. In spite of the light crop of grapes this season the earlier varieties are now selling for less than last year. To date the wineries have shown no inclination to make contracts in this district. Concord grapes are being shipped from this station, which sets an all-time record for maturity of this variety.

Several fruit trucks have been prosecuted for trespassing on railway property while loading fruit at the shipping platform. The usual fine to date has been $10 and costs.

Beamsville will revert back to standard time at the same time that Hamilton makes the change.

By joint use of poles the Hydro and Bell Telephone company are now able to remove part of the poles on King street.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE AND FINE IMPOSED

Provided the two accused signed bonds of $200 and reported regularly to the probation officer, Magistrate Vance in county police court this morning agreed to grant a suspension of six months sentence to Herbert Carpenter, 134 East 23rd street, Mount Hamilton, and Dennis Clowry, 76 Martinas avenue, charged with stealing grapes from John Zavislak, Saltfleet township farmer. The pair were arrested by Deputy Police Chief Owen for the offense with which they were charged, but both claimed that they had actually not gotten away with any of the grapes.

Allan Sharp, the 70-year-old Calstarville autist whose car crashed into an expensive machine from Cleveland, Ohio, near Grimsby Monday afternoon, and who is charged with reckless driving and with driving without a permit by Traffic Officer

Band, was given an adjournment until Wednesday.

William B. Cockburn, Saltfleet, charged by Officer Darby with operating a trailer without first registering it at the department of public highways, paid a fine of $10 and costs.

COW KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Wednesday afternoon's electrical storm did considerable damage in this district. A cow owned by a farmer named Sczyrba, about three-quarters of a mile east of Smithville, was killed by lightning while in a pasture field. Power in the village was interrupted with for about an hour and a half and trees in different localities were hit by lightning. No reports of any buildings being struck were received.

POLICE FIND LIQUOR STILL ON FARM

Escaping through a cellar door men employed on heating up a liquor still with a 4,000 gallons of mash capacity, got away from the R.C.M.P. into the bush surrounding the farm occupied by Herbert Hewer, of Aberfoyle, near Guelph, just before noon on Tuesday. Provincial police, tipped off to the huge still, had been misled last night and raided the wrong farm but the Mounties got on the right track and discovered the still, 2,000 gallons of mash and 300 gallons of finished product, 140 per cent proof. One of the most elaborate stills discovered in this district was found, but as they entered, men who had evidently just lighted the furnace, made their exit through the rear and disappeared into the bush.

40 ATTEND CLINIC IN ST. CATHARINES

There were about 40 local residents in attendance at the clinic at the General Hospital on Monday at which those who have suffered from infantile paralysis gave of their blood to prevent crippling among those who may develop the disease. This is one of the largest clinics of the kind held and Dr. Currey, M.O.H., who arranged the clinic, was highly pleased with the response.

About Readers And Writers of Advertisements

IT'S A VERY old story—the story of the man who put in a great daily newspaper an inconspicuous 2-line advertisement as follows:

Cats Wanted — $1.00 each, before 9 a.m. 16 Major street.

He put in this advertisement to prove to a doubting friend that the public reads advertisements.

You can imagine the doubter's consternation when he saw next morning a streetful of men, women and children—each with a cat.

WHATEVER you yourself may do, in regard to the reading of advertisements, know this: Everything printed in a newspaper gets read, and there are many who read every line—news matter and advertisements—those with lots of time and curiosity.

The company or firm with something to sell—something which thousands of persons can buy—wouldn't be very wise if it published an inconspicuous advertisement. The right thing for it to do is to crash in on your attention, by publishing an advertisement which everybody is likely to see.

Its job is to make you — a normal man or woman — see its advertisement and to make it so interesting that you'll read it. Then the advertisement must be persuasive. Also it should facilitate you to take action.

OF COURSE, some advertisements—those of local retailers—may, quite properly, give prominence to prices. Their job may be to direct you, rather than to inform or persuade you; and to stir you up to quick action.

The writing, designing and illustrating of advertisements intended to capture attention, intrigue interest, convey information, be convincing, breed desire for what is advertised, and incite the reader to purchase are highly specialized jobs.

IF YOU want to know just how difficult is the job of writing an advertisement which would get 100 marks from a competent judge, try to write one—about a vacuum cleaner, a motor car, a writing ink, a child's shoe, or any thing else, limiting yourself to 300 words or less.
